There is no end to study; we only learn how much more there is to learn and we do not wish it to ever end. . .

In this building we have worked and laughed, worried, talked, eaten, planned; we have entered it in the early morning and left it after dark; we know its halls, its classrooms and offices, its library and laboratories, its places for lounging; we know the surrounding fields and trees; its varied aspects have become part of us and we will never forget it . . .

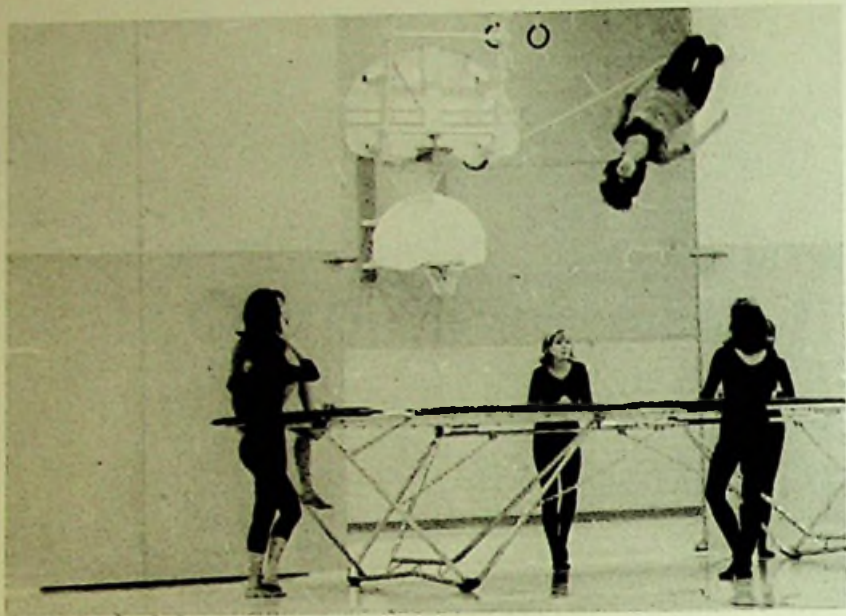

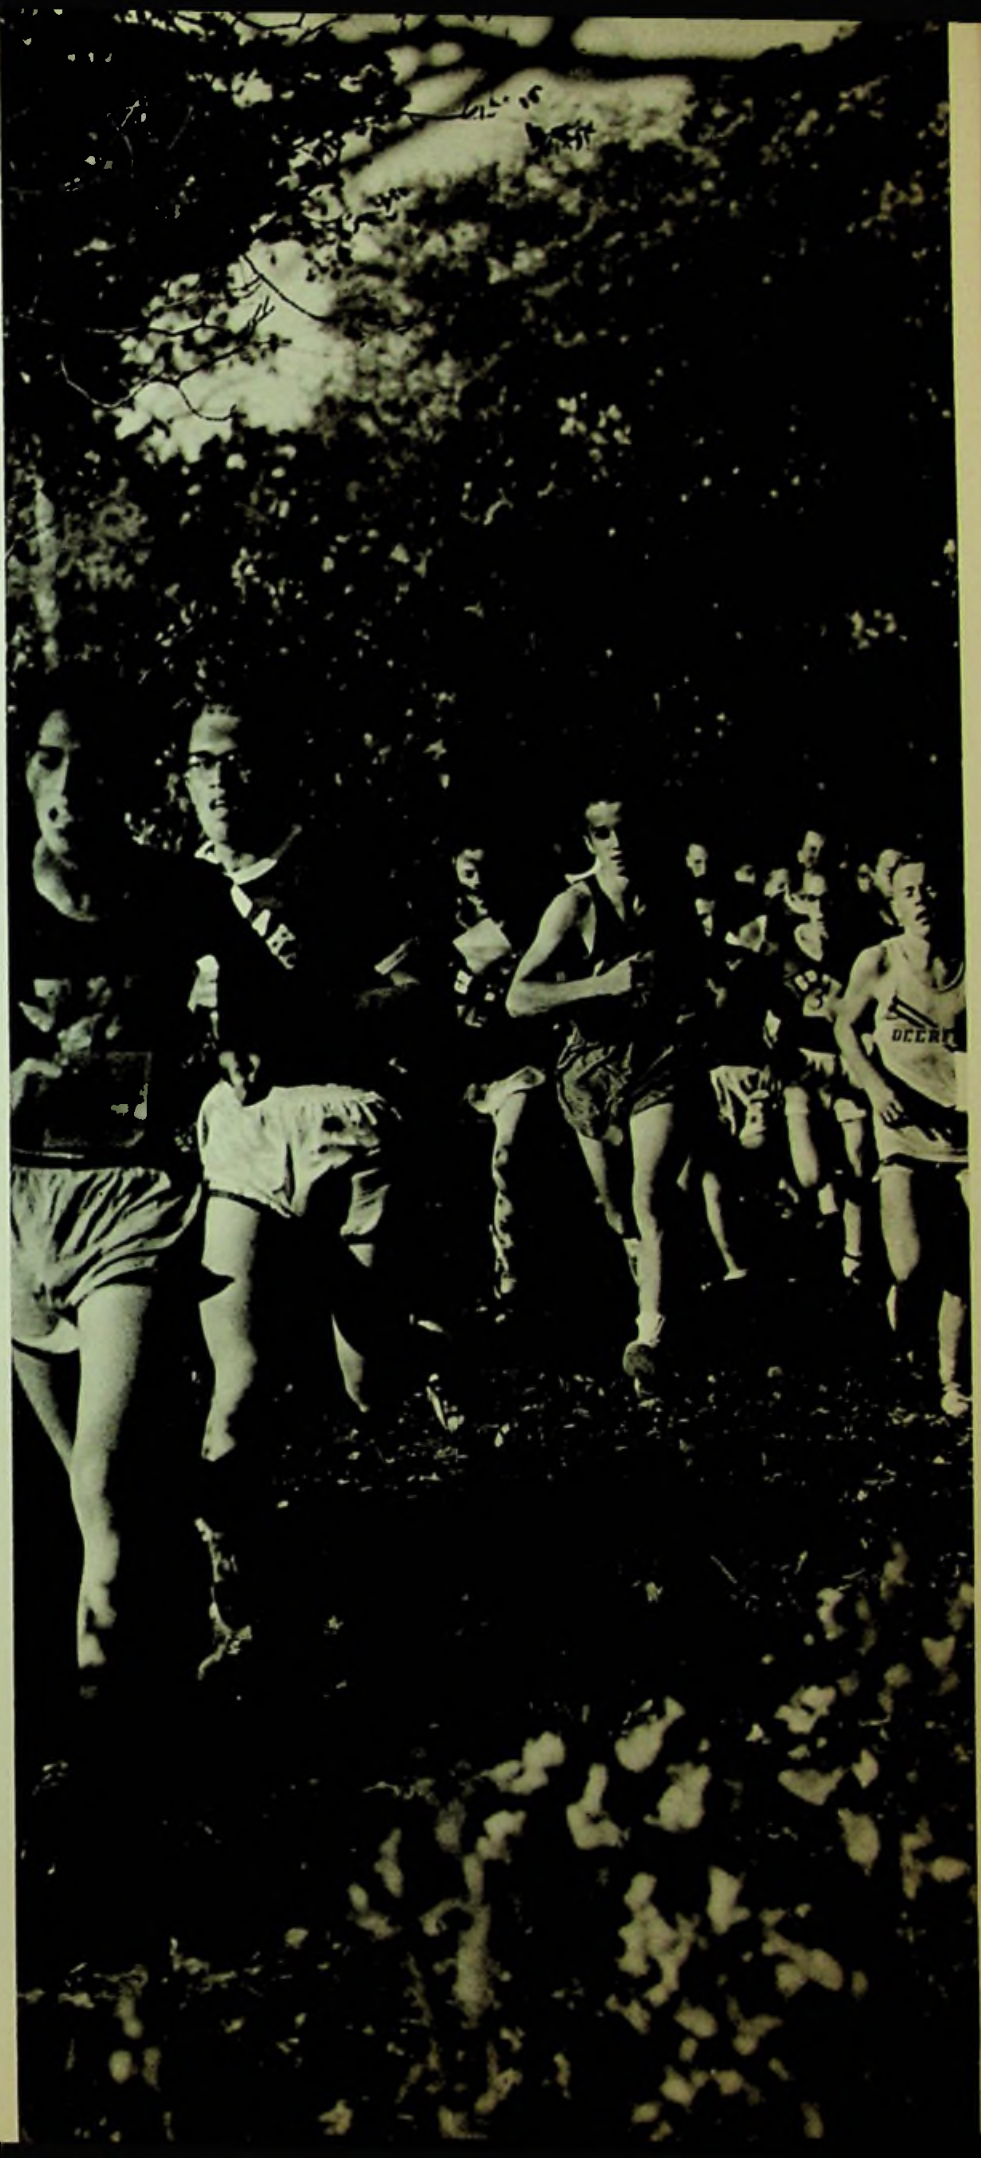

What is more pleasurable than many people watching together, laughing, shouting together, in unison, en masse. . .

They have known what it means to strive, to hope, to achieve; they have known the thrill and the enjoyment that comes from playing and working with others. . .

Warrior Weekend

The seniors tried hard for the spirit jug, but . . .

Friday Night—The excitement of Warrior Weekend began Friday at 7:30 P.M. with a pep rally. Everyone was enthusiastic, but the sophomores showed their spirit superiority by winning the DHS spirit jug. After the pep rally, the cheerleaders led the student body in a snake dance around the school grounds to the bonfire area. There, amid enthusiastic cheers, a Prospect Knight was burned in effigy, and the queen and her court were announced.

Chosen as queen to reign over the weekend's activities was Cheryl Linton. Her court included Kathy Magnus, the senior representative; Laura Rudolph from the junior class; Sue Thompson, sophomore representative; and Patti Magnus from the freshman class.

After the bonfire free cokes (yes, free cokes) were served by the Student Council at a coke dance.

the Warrior bonfire!

Laura Rudolph, Kathy Magnus, Cheryl Linton, Sue Thompson, Patti Magnus—"Happiness."

Queen Cheryl was applauded by Prospect Knights and Deerfield Warriors alike, as she was driven around the track by her escort, Rich Robbins.

The Warrior spirit was visible when Kevin Hoy and his "gallant steed" galloped around the track.

Saturday — The excitement reached its climax on Saturday when Deerfield maintained its unbeaten record and defeated Prospect. During half-time, the "football dads" were given pictures of their sons, our heroes; and the queen and her escort led the parade of floats. The seniors were no exception to the enthusiasm of the crowd, as their float, "We Swallow All But Defeat," was announced the winner of the float competition.

Sue Palmer and Rusty Scheskie were among those who danced until their feet were sore.

Dee Devens, Brad Schlesinger, Rick Moore and Bonnie Scheskie enjoy the Pigskin Ball.

"And then there was the time when . . ." says Grandma Merri Hardy to granddaughter Michele Lyon.

"Let me entertain you," begs Laura Rudolph.

"What hath we wrought," groans Tina Abrahamson, assistant director, at dress rehearsal.

We turned back the clock to the good old days at DHS and then, to the future—Todd Strauss and Bonnie West, Murray Nelson and Stephanie Fitts.

Student Stunts Is Sellout

The excitement rose backstage as the clock approached 8 p.m. on November 15 and 16. The event—student stunts, entitled "Smatter of Time" was presented by the senior class.

The show was a light-hearted picture of past and future events in the life of the class of '64. It began with the graduation of the class, then moved to "Typical College Co-eds," "Another Saturday Night," and other college episodes. Next came a glimpse of married life—"Matrimony Bumps" and "Rock-a-Bye My Baby"—and careers and finally a class reunion.

Sue Bers, director, and her assistants, Tina Abrahamson and Jim Salisbury; dance directors, Timmee Driscoll and Diane Rader; music directors, Leota Didier and Ellen Conedera; business manager, Sherry Rubin; and stage manager, Barbara Clark deserve a great deal of credit for the success of stunts '64.

"I represent an Eastern concern," Carol Pick, alias Frankie the Fink informs Dorothy Mead, alias Mrs. Smart.

Seniors Sponsor Hootenanny

What do you get when you cross an owl with a goat? A "hootenanny" of course! Anyway, that's what the seniors got. On October 19 they sponsored Deerfield's first hootenanny. Talent and judges were "imported" from Deerfield and the surrounding area.

The judges awarded third prize to the Trevian Three from New Trier; second prize to Ed and Larry Basil and first prize to our own Corky Fremling. After the judging everyone joined in the singing.

Second place winners—"The Brothers," Ed and Larry Basil sang to a packed house.

A good time was had by all!

"Hmm that punch was good."

"Small World Isn't It?" Gail Howard at "Blues In The Night."

... And We Danced

There have been many successful dances throughout this school year. The Kickoff Dance started off the succession of dances. The dance topped off the eventful day on which DHS won its first football game. Homecoming, "Pigskin Ball" was the next dance.

"Blues in the Night," the GIMA Turnabout, was held on February 29 and on April 18 the sophomore class sponsored "Medieval Magic."

"Mothers Unlimited"

December found DHS female students and their mothers in the cafeteria enjoying the annual Girls' Club Mother-Daughter Banquet. This year "Mothers Unlimited" was the theme.

After dinner and the awarding of prizes from the fall magazine drive, everyone adjourned to the auditorium for a hootenanny and a satirical show about mothers and their daughters.

Maryl Diver, Robin Hosford and Lynn Feldman reminisce about the good old days before "mommy" invented fire.

Mr. Lyle Frahm awards a letter to Neal Hirsch, captain of the basketball team.

Bill George, Chicago Bear line-backer, speaks to dads and their sons at the fall sports banquet.

Banquets Honor Athletes

Athletes were honored throughout the year at three awards banquets. With the hard work of the Dads' Club, these dinners proved very successful.

Olympic wrestling champion Terry McCan helped honor wrestlers, swimmers and basketball players at the winter sports banquet.

The Spring Sports Banquet honored the members of the track, baseball, golf, and tennis teams.

Varsity cheerleaders receive their letters.

"A World's Fair Of Fashion"

Attention, when the Girls' Club presented its annual fashion show entitled "A World's Fair of Fashion," was focused on fashions to be worn at the fair. Those modeling the fashions included senior and junior boys, girls from all classes, teachers and parents. Proceeds went to the foreign exchange student fund.

Dramatics DHS

DHS productions are never forgotten—and "Skin of Our Teeth," the all-school production of spring, 1963, was no exception. This comedy by Thornton Wilder was presented under the direction of Mr. Douglas Alleman.

"Oklahoma," the second DHS operetta, was presented by the music department on April 23 and 24, under the direction of Mr. Chester Kyle, head of the department; Mr. Alfred Spriester, in charge of the orchestra, Miss Angi Boyd, dance director and Mr. Douglas Alleman, dramatics coach.

Jim Salisbury (Mr. Antrobus), Tina Abrahamson (Mrs. Antrobus), Sue Bers (Sabina) and Denny Mitchell (Henry Antrobus) enact a scene from "Skin of Our Teeth."

Jim Salisbury as Curly in "Oklahoma."

Cathy Fielding (Ado Annie), Mark Lipson (Andrew Carnes), Larry Wheeler (Will), Jim Cordell (Jud), Karna Olson (Aunt Eller), Chris Rahn (Gertie Cummings) and Barry Cohan (Ali Hakim) are pictured in a scene of "Oklahoma." Absent: Laurie Eldredge (Laurey) and Dave Schooler (Ali Hakim).

Hard at work during a rehearsal are Barry Cohan (Ali Hakim), Barbie Ensminger (Gertie Cummings), Corky Fremling (Jud), Bruce Cleary (Andrew Carnes), Larry Wheeler (Will) and Kathy Magnus (Ado Annie). Absent: Leota Didier (Aunt Eller) and Gail Howard (Laurey).

Sue Swisher, Buddy Seiler, David Conroy and Chris Vaga share in the excitement as their tickets were given to Mark Biega and Mike Kramer at prom.

Judy Thompson, queen and Jerry Christy, king are surrounded by their court: Joyce Holderbaum, Janice Gualtieri, Jane Johnson, Dick Nychay, Fred Teeter and Don Clark at "Saku-ra Hana."

"We finally made it!"—Marty Haugh, senior class marshal, Lee Barry and Ron Salzman are excited and unbelieving.

Spring '63--Prom, Graduation

The class of '63 planned an exciting prom, called "Saku-ra Hana," or "Cherry Blossom Time." The decorations were on a Japanese theme including a tea house, a little bridge, an outdoor pool and a throne covered with pink carnations on which the king and queen reigned with their court.

Following right on the heels of prom came graduation. Would they or wouldn't they? The seniors were holding their breaths. In spite of graduation announcements, cap and gown measurements and rehearsals—it had never seemed real. Here it was June. The first senior class of Deerfield High School was graduating. This was the end.

Guidance For Life Adjustment

"The goals of our department are to provide the continuing process of helping students achieve the self-understanding and self discipline necessary to make maximum adjustment in school and in life."—Miss Muriel Klinge, guidance director. When a student enters Deerfield High School as a freshman, he or she is assigned to a session in which he remains for four years. This helps the student to know at least one teacher very well during his high school career, and it is this session teacher, together with his adviser chairman (two for each class; one for boys and one for girls) who help the student plan his high school and future life through group guidance and individual counselling.

An excellent college and career guide room is furnished with information on hundreds of colleges and careers, while the adviser chairmen and session teachers can offer more personal assistance. Perhaps the best estimate of the guidance department was provided by the following remark, "You feel," said a student, "that they really care what happens to you as a person."

Miss Joan Harvey and Mr. Ralph Poelling, senior adviser chairmen.

Miss Wilma Tallman and Mr. Charles Splitgerber, freshman adviser chairmen.

Through Knowledge - To Peace

Students in the social studies department are guided to an understanding of their own environment, culture and traditions as well as those of other nations, while being shown the control and direction of change-producing forces. This is achieved through a comprehensive program both of "straight" history and real social studies courses such as sociology and economics.

An interesting new feature of this department is the history seminar, an advanced placement course for seniors who have taken the honors program which consists of ancient history and modern history as well as the year of American history which all students must take in order to graduate.

As well as seeing the past, DHS history and social studies students keep up to date with current events, discussions, seminars and field trips.

English Aims For Better Expression

DHS's English department offers, in addition to four years of survey courses, a complete program of electives including creative writing, drama, debate and public speaking and journalism; which may be taken in the junior or senior year. In addition, qualified students are invited to participate in an honors program which culminates in a college level course at the senior level. Through these programs, as well as extracurricular activities, the department strives to provide the student with a critical regard for sources of knowledge such as television, radio and movies. The program aims to help him develop self-knowledge and self-discipline and be provided with opportunities to practice effective oral and written communication.

Mathematics— Extension Of Learning

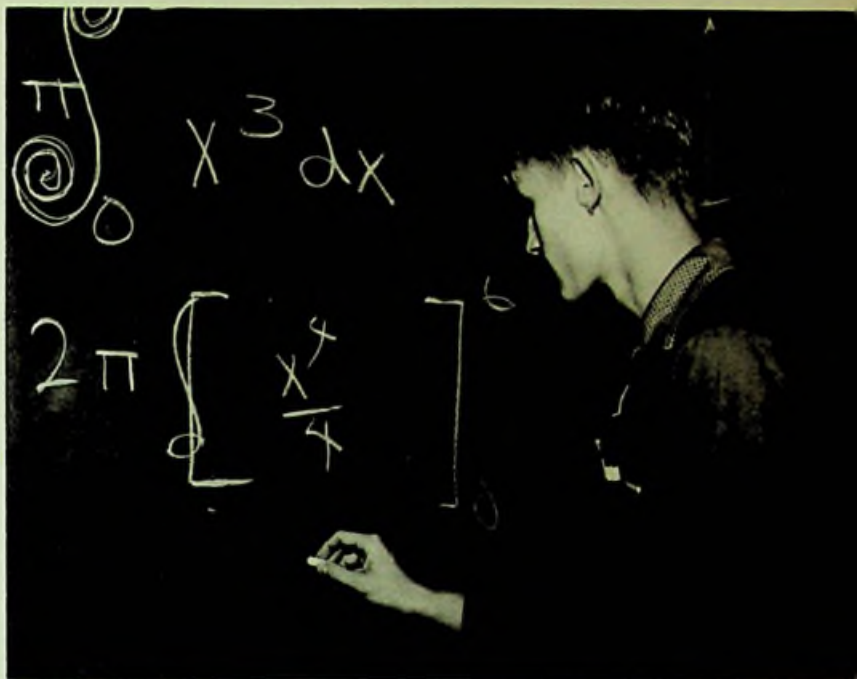

"If all the mathematics of the universe were graphed as a straight line one mile long, the amount learned by the average high school student would extend only one inch. It is the goal of the mathematics department to extend that inch to two or perhaps three inches."—Karl P. Wildermuth, chairman of the Deerfield High School mathematics department.

Theory And Practice Lead To Truth

Although "green version" may sound like some kind of creeping fungus, it is actually the name for a new method of teaching biology, employed by some DHS teachers this year. This is only one of many exciting features, including a new course in conservation, of Deerfield High's science department.

Others include our excellent teaching staff and modern laboratory equipment, all of which contribute to making the student aware of the important role science plays in society and his own life. The student is also helped, through a program of experimentation and study, to explore and develop ideas—and perhaps pursue a scientific career.

This year, Mr. Garwood Braun, head of the science department, was granted a leave of absence to work with the Ford Foundation on a project to develop the science facilities and curricula of a new school at Ankara, Turkey.

Through Language To Understanding

Mrs. Susan Hutchison
Miss Bayonne O'Mara

Miss Ursula Lutz
Miss Edna Mae Shafer

Deerfield's language department features courses in Latin, Spanish, French and German. Latin teachers strive to improve the English of their students, as well as guiding them to read Latin and masterpieces of Caesar, Cicero and Vergil in their original forms.

Students of the modern languages are also expected to speak their particular language, to understand it when they hear it spoken and to write it correctly.

The excellent language laboratory gives the modern language students a chance to test both their comprehension and speaking skills as individuals. Tapes used in these skills are made by native speakers. During their third and fourth years of study, in addition to mastery over a certain language, students are concerned with learning about the culture and literature of the country from which the language sprang.

Mrs. Eva Maxey, chairman; Mrs. Betty Freehling; Mr. Raymond Knudson.

Mr. Richard Rurey, Mr. Charles Splitgerber

Typing is a requirement for much college work. DHS courses teach grammar and organization as well as the basic skill itself.

Training And Skills— Preparation For Life

The Business education department has five major objectives. First, is vocational competency, or the ability to use essential business skills, developed by courses such as typing, stenography and office machines.

Development of socio-economic understanding and consumer-business competency are achieved through business law and salesmanship courses as well as the more general survey course, introduction to business, taken in the freshman or sophomore year.

As new methods and new machines make some jobs obsolete and create new ones, the DHS business department prepares its students for the future by teaching them the importance of adjusting to change.

College-bound students also make good use of these excellent course offerings in addition to the specially designed course in college typing and notehand. The business department is one of the most complete at DHS. It offers something for everyone, and perhaps its very versatility is the key to its success.

Audrey Blixt designs a business education bulletin board displaying the characteristics of a good secretary.

Mr. Knudson lends a helping hand to Judy Niemi as she practices on an electric calculator. The office machines course teaches students skills that are valuable in the business world.

Home Economics Shapes Goals

Regardless of her goals and ambitions, every girl needs to know and make use of the principles of home economics. There is a growing need for trained home economists, and a student choosing this as a career will find endless opportunities open to her following graduation from college.

Students in the home economics department of Deerfield High School are taught theory, science, art and skills as well as being guided to make intelligent decisions concerning personal, family and community life.

DHS is fortunate to have a nursery school, comparable to many college laboratory schools, where the high school students observe and work with preschool children.

Gayle Parsons, Sharon Kassner, Sandy Kielhack and Pat Winchell study the origin of various textiles.

Industrial Arts—Development Of Mechanical Ability

Industrial arts is a department in which courses may be profitably taken by students in every range of ability. The program is designed to develop basic skills in handling tools and machinery, to enable the student to develop his aptitudes and interests in this particular area and cultivate a feeling of pride in his work. Industrial arts also helps the student to relate his activities to vocational goals and useful hobbies.

Two courses are specifically designed for the student who plans to major in engineering in college; they are architectural drafting and engineering drafting. Students are made more aware by the content of industrial arts, of their roles as consumers of industrial products and Americans in a technological world.

Enjoyment Of Beauty Enriches Life

DHS's art department has classes and activities to benefit anyone, from the art major to the interested but unskilled. A course in painting and sculpture entitled Advanced Studio Arts has been added this year for a small and select group of students.

The department, offering a complete program of art education, is also one of the few high schools in the state of Illinois to offer special classes in painting. Students are encouraged to develop creativity and the creative approach to problem solving, a more appreciative attitude toward the great artists of the past and their works, a visual awareness of their surroundings and artistic judgment toward them. Techniques are taught so that a student may have the knowledge to pursue art either as a vocation or as a satisfying and worthwhile avocation.

Activities And Techniques Add To Appreciation

With a full schedule of band and choral concerts, the district music festival, the Interim League Festival, the spring operetta and broadcasts over radio station WBBM, the music department is one of the most active at Deerfield High School.

It is constantly experimenting with new techniques and theories, as well as new courses—added this year was the Junior A Cappella Choir, open to students with advanced standing on completion of an oral and written test. Another innovation is the reserve band, open to students who have attained some degree of skill in instrumental music.

Through these programs and aided by its excellent facilities, the music department strives to develop in its students certain musical skills such as tone quality and production. It attempts to lead them toward a fuller and more satisfying life with the aid of music either as a profession or an absorbing avocation.

Girls Gain Poise Through Dance, Sports

All girls at DHS are required to take physical education for four years. The freshman course includes health, the sophomore—driver education. In the last two years girls are offered a choice between courses that offer sports alone and those which feature swimming. The department tries to interest each student in the value of activity and good movement in everyday life. Through physical education, students learn to provide for the promotion of social responsibility and development of desirable character traits and good leadership. This department includes excellent facilities and equipment, which enable students to participate in a wide variety of activities.

Boys' P.E. Strives For Fitness

The boys' physical education department has been recognized by the state as being one of the top ten physical education programs in Illinois. Many schools from all over the country have asked for information about the DHS physical education program.

DHS's department has achieved this fame through a solid program of sports and activities designed to promote physical development and the acquiring of a wide variety of skills, as well as the growth of behavior patterns necessary to useful living, desirable health behavior and increasing interest and favorable attitudes towards physical activity.

Perhaps the best indication of this department's success is that DHS boys taking the National Youth Physical Fitness Test ranked in an amazingly high percentile for all four levels in high school.

Materials Area Supplies Background For Research

Deerfield High School is fortunate to have an excellent and rapidly growing materials area for individual or class research.

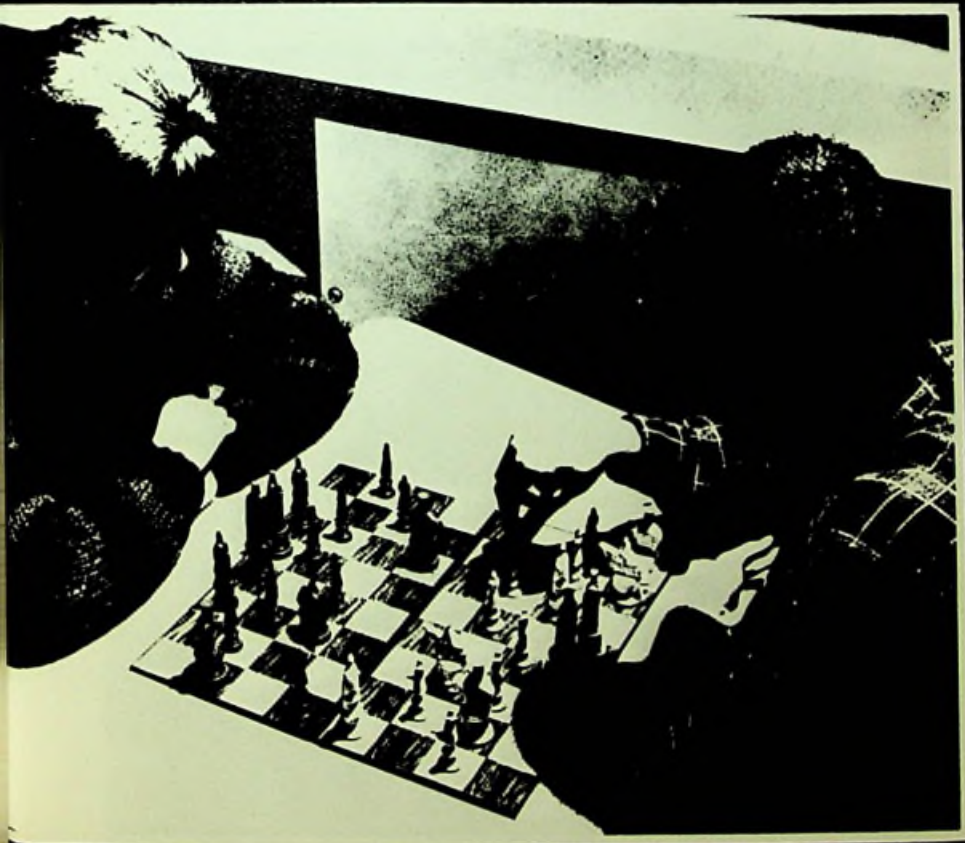

American and foreign newspapers and periodicals, films, tapes, charts, pictures and realia (preserved specimens of organic and non-organic matter) give students an opportunity to know varying aspects of the contemporary world and their cultural heritage.

Jeff Steinorth and Doug Hanneman are shown by Mrs. Ruth Bean how to find and use some of the many reference materials our library offers.

While Jacki Renulfi waits in line, Miss Susan Brown, Librarian, checks out a book for Mary Lou Piersen. Senior honors enabled many more students to use the library effectively.

Organizations

Student Council Practices Self Government

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS—Top: Neal Hirsch, president; Martha Rudolph, vice president. Bottom: Susan Hildendorf, secretary; Skip Godow, treasurer.

Student Council is composed of elected session representatives and an executive board chosen in an all-school election. As such it represents the entire student body, and functions as a unit of self-government.

It is the student council that holds the first, or "Kick-off" dance each year; sets up the marshall system; buys National Honor Society pins, takes charge of student driving and school chest; sponsors the bonfire for homecoming weekend, the foreign exchange student committee, snack bar and coat checks at games; as well as adopting a child in Thailand.

The council is organized along democratic principles and tries to allow both its members and the student body to experience the functions of self-government.

Singer, Danny Lim, Tom Raredon, Jay Mandler; Miss Muriel Klinge and Mr. Robert Torsberg, advisers. Absent: Susan Hildendorf, Skip Godow.

Mike Rollheiser, student marshal trained in the art of detecting forgery, checks Jerrie Zelent's pass.

Lim Su Nyen, Danny to us, is Deerfield High's foreign exchange student for 1963-1964. Danny is from North Borneo.

GIMA OFFICERS—Seated: Judy Kay, vice president; Barb Hirschfelder, president and Miss Anne McCutchan, sponsor. Standing: Jill Schulze, publicity chairman; Merri Hardy, intramural coordinator and Colleen McGuire, secretary-treasurer. Absent: Madelyn Jenksy, social chairman and Sally Muir, intramural coordinator.

Nancy Meyer, Bonnie West, Jill Schulze and Mary Long decorate for the GIMA turnabout "Blues in the Night."

Girls Go for Sports

GIMA (Girls' Intramural Association) provides the girls of DHS with as full and satisfying an athletic program as inter and intramurals provide for their masculine counterparts. Held after school, this program allows all girl students, not only members, to increase their knowledge of and skill in certain sports, as well as supplying them with the basics of good sportsmanship and the capacity for enjoyable use of leisure time.

Members, who are initiated on a point-system—points being won by attendance at intramurals—enjoy special benefits, such as "play-days" with girls from other schools, teas and a father-daughter picnic. In addition, GIMA sponsors the annual turnabout dance and several other athletic, special-interest groups—Dance Club, Swim Club, Tumbling Club and Officials' Club.

Athletics Build Character

“Athletics make valuable contributions to the development of strong young men, with high standards of conduct and sound moral ideas.” It is on this premise that DHS's Varsity “D” Club, open to all holders of varsity letters, was founded and on which it operates. Members assist in conducting athletic events and sponsor social events, such as fun nights, when all the athletic facilities of the school are open to the entire student body.

John Murtfeldt and Scott Fairchild jump for a ball at one of the fun nights sponsored by Varsity Club.

Pep Club sponsored many pep rallies and spirit gatherings throughout the year.

Pep Club Builds Spirit

Deerfield High's Pep Club plays a vital role in its communication with the students. It is Pep Club, for example, that sponsors pep rallies and buses to "away" games, puts up posters, holds "red and gray" days and passes out tags to let everyone know about the big athletic events coming up. Once the "big game" is underway, it is Pep Club that sells shakers, Warrior buttons and gives out more tags in an effort to improve school spirit. Then, after the game, the weary Warriors and their frantic fans are treated to a coke dance, courtesy of Pep Club. What more could any team ask than such loyal support?

PEP CLUB OFFICERS—

Service, Shows, Styles

Girls' Club is the biggest in the entire school, for every girl automatically becomes a member upon her entrance into Deerfield High School. The purpose of Girls' Club is to unify these girls through projects which are both fun and render valuable service.

The gals start the year off with a bang by assigning every freshman girl a junior "big sister" to show her around, and by giving both juniors and freshmen a tea. Next comes the magazine drive, which raises money for scholarships to senior girls; and the sale of white chrysanthemums at homecoming.

An annual event is the mother-daughter banquet, where the girls entertain their moms with dinner, singing and a show. Also every year comes the spring fashion show, where DHS students, teachers and parents model the latest in spring and summer wear.

Service projects of Girls' Club include entertaining at old peoples' homes, making dolls for children in hospitals and Christmas carolling.

Girls' Club members Sally Sheehan, Gayle Parsons, Cheryl Zeman, Betty Stilphen, Dotty Dilsner and Janet Carnahan work on the rag dolls and puppets which went to a Chicago child care center.

"Almost finished and we haven't tripped yet!" Marjie Wolf and Neal Hirsch move toward Paul Luyben and the end of a long, long walk at "A World's Fair of Fashion."

Miss Bonnie Bremer, sponsor;
Mrs. Ann Dravillas, sponsor;
Paula Bregman, treasurer;
Claudia Blair, social chairman;
Sally Sheehan, president; Jody Wood, secretary; Dorrie Scher, publicity chairman and Carole Mathisen, vice president.

FTA OFFICERS—Seated: Madelyn Jensky, vice president and Lynn Gordon, president. Standing: Mrs. Ann Ferren, sponsor; Sally Sheehan, social chairman and Dania Hedberg, secretary-treasurer. Absent: Virginia Johnson, vice president; Pat Knoll, Linda Hamilton and Gail Duberchin, executive board.

Nancy Freifeld takes notes as sociology tutor Sandy Modes explains some basic concepts. The student tutoring program of FTA freed teachers to give more individual help.

FNC OFFICERS—Seated: Mrs. Dacia Fahler, sponsor; Lillian Kasperson, president and Shirley Stole, vice president. Standing: Joyce Neugart, business manager; Susan Hildebrandt, secretary and Marilyn Mandler, program chairman.

One group at Deerfield High School that really looks ahead is the Future Nurses' Club, which has as its purpose bringing together students interested in nursing and health careers in order to share their interest and explore opportunities in this field. The club participates in the health careers day sponsored by the women's auxiliary of Highland Park Hospital, and packs and bakes cookies for distribution to nearby hospitals. In addition to this, the club plans many programs which revolve around health careers.

Experiment and Innovation

Math Club has as its goals the extension and vitalization of the study of mathematics and related topics on an informal level, beyond regular classroom work. The club tries to procure interesting speakers and films related to mathematics, in addition to its regularly scheduled program of meetings and projects.

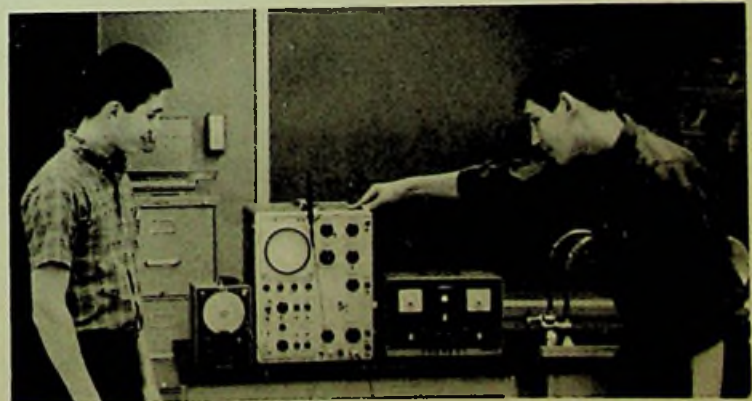

MATH CLUB OFFICERS—Standing: Mark Janis, secretary; Mike Bix, executive board; and Mr. James Gosh, sponsor. Kneeling: Lloyd Irland, president; Rich Wasserman, executive board; and Brian Hall, program director. Absent: Shelton Kang, assistant.

SCIENCE CLUB OFFICERS—Standing: Mr. William Luebbert, sponsor; Skip Godow, publicity chairman; Larry Strichman, secretary; Steve Meyer and Shelton Kang, executive board members. Kneeling: Tom Lustig, president; and Rich Foster, vice president.

Steve Meyer and Tom Lustig demonstrate an oscilloscope.

Science Club has a wide program of activities and experiments, as befits its equally wide and far-reaching goals: to increase knowledge of science and the skills it involves, to understand the importance of science in our lives, to encourage members in research, to initiate an enjoyment in science and to give service to both community and nation. From clubs such as these may come the Einsteins, the Fermis and the Newtons of tomorrow.

DRAMA CLUB OFFICERS—Linda Frech, secretary-treasurer; Lee Housekeeper, president; Carol Barnard, social chairman; Mr. Louis Crouch, sponsor and Joanne Brooks, vice president.

Feelings into Words

Drama Club is for all students with an interest in the theater. They meet for discussions and the performances of one act plays which are given by the members themselves at various times during the year. Field trips are also taken to various professional shows for the purpose of studying acting techniques and production methods.

Back: Ginger Carani, Jeff Bell, Gail Hadjuk, and Lee Housekeeper discuss a new script, while front: Anna Moss, Cheryl Sanmann, Frank Baker and Dave Miller study lines.

STAGE CREW OFFICERS—Seated: Mr. Kenneth Niedfeldt, sponsor; Roger Voight, electrician; Barb Clark, stage manager; Bruce Berg, lighting director. Standing: Benny Uybadin, construction; George Hallam, audio technician and Marcy Stein, set designer. Absent: Mr. James Chamberlain, sponsor.

Marsha Lauzon, Mr. James Chamberlain, Barb Clark, Bob Goulka, Mr. Douglas Alleman, Gail Larson, Frank Baker and Burr Nelson go over plans for a new set.

Efficiency Behind The Scenes

While Stage Crew itself doesn't sponsor any activities, it is an essential part of all school productions; such as student stunts, operetta, Girls' Club shows, concerts and assemblies. In addition, Stage Crew handled the lighting, sound, etc. for hootenanny and swim show. Members of the crew have the opportunity, by working in their particular fields of interest—such as set design, sound etc.—to increase their knowledge of the theatre and to provide service for their school.

Satisfaction in Skill

BRIDGE CLUB OFFICERS—Mimi Chesrow, secretary; Mr. Raymond Horton, sponsor; Steve Kerns, vice president and Marnie Verbofsky, president.

Bridge Club, newly formed this year, has advantages for both beginners and those who have already attained some degree of skill. These "pros" teach the newcomers how to play bridge, and the skilled players are provided with the opportunity to practice. The club also strives to promote good sportsmanship and companionship.

Iris Exelrod, Don Schmickrath, Mark Lipson and Mark Frankel ponder their bridge hands. Does Don have the proverbial ace up his sleeve?

CHESS CLUB OFFICERS—Seated: Rich Wasserman, mgr; Randy Shipley, secretary; Bill Zimmer, president and Ken Boyd, vice president. Standing: Mike Stern, treasurer and Miss Bayonne O'Mara, sponsor.

Randy Shipley, Carl McMahon, Bob Goulka and Chuck Clemons observe a chess game between Jim Landreth and Mike Bix. Now how does that piece move again?

Belonging to Chess Club can be a fulltime occupation. Before and after school and whenever possible the members assemble in Miss O'Mara's room to practice their techniques. Although the chief purposes of Chess Club are to learn to play the game for enjoyment and to improve skills, the club also participates in a series of tournaments with other schools.

Debaters Dave Robbins, Rich Foster and Bill Arthur prepare for the next round, surrounded by the trophies which a victorious season has brought them.

Excellence in Expression Sensitivity in Speech

“TROUBADOUR is published in proud recognition of the creative thought and artistic expression of students, in the hope that by encouraging aesthetic awareness and by communicating artistic discovery, Deerfield High School students may become an active force in the recreation of existence. The purpose of TROUBADOUR is to encourage creative literary expression by students, to produce a significant expression of the spiritual and intellectual character of Youth and to provide a stimulating literary experience for readers.”—TROUBADOUR Data Sheet, 1964.

Perhaps the most valuable thing about debate is that it provides a wide variety of interesting and challenging experiences; not the least of which is the stimulating competition provided by a rigorous schedule and several tournaments; including one at Northern Illinois University and one at Navy Pier. In addition, debaters pick up valuable skills in effective oral communication, research, evaluation of data and logic.

O*YAD Staff Records Year 1963-64

One book holds the sum total of O*YAD's achievements and aims. This is the story of a school year, in this case, 1963-64. In it are memories which are meaningful for all students—a record of classes, clubs, sports, activities and ideas, as well as teachers and students. If there were some way to measure the paper, pencils, sweat and time that go into Our Year at Deerfield, the ratio per page would be staggering.

There is no better way to feel the pulse of a school than through its main artery—the student newspaper. Here are the newsworthy events in school and community, the announcements, the reports on games, the columns of student opinion, the gossip, the fads, the ideas—the whole personality of Deerfield High School. In addition to these values, DEERPRINTS provides an opportunity for staff members to increase their writing ability, develop journalistic skills and a sense of responsibility, to gain insight, logic and perception.

Color and Cadence

The concert band, which plays at all home football and basketball games, in addition to the twirling corps and the drum major, is an interesting and colorful (not to mention tuneful) addition to half-times. Through these activities and a series of concerts, as-semblies and festivals, band develops the appreciation of music in its members, musical skills, citizenship and leadership. Band also strives to perform good music for the student body and the community and to develop and maintain school spirit.

Masters of Music

A Cappella Choir has provided much beautiful music this year, at assemblies, concerts and programs. They introduced the DHS loyalty song at National Honor Society initiation and homecoming, presented a program of Christmas music and participated in a number of community concerts.

In addition, the choir takes periodic field trips to musicals in the area to observe techniques and methods of singing. This group is made up of the finest singers at Deerfield High, although it is not the only choral group, and Junior A Cappella Choir, Girls' Chorus, Freshman Advanced Chorus and several mixed choruses also provide DHS with music.

Eldredge, secretary and accompanist; Jim Salisbury, president; Mr. Chester Kyle, director.

Music, Culture, Service

The DHS orchestra has a staggering schedule. In addition to playing for school assemblies at Christmas, graduation and National Honor Society initiation, they play at special concerts, the Interim League Music Festival and operetta.

Their joint purpose of entertaining and providing their listeners with a purposeful background in musical culture is one of the most well carried-out of all the clubs.

CAMERA CLUB OFFICERS—Tom Tubergen, treasurer; Mark Schoeffman, secretary; Ed Normandy, president and Bob Lersch, vice president.

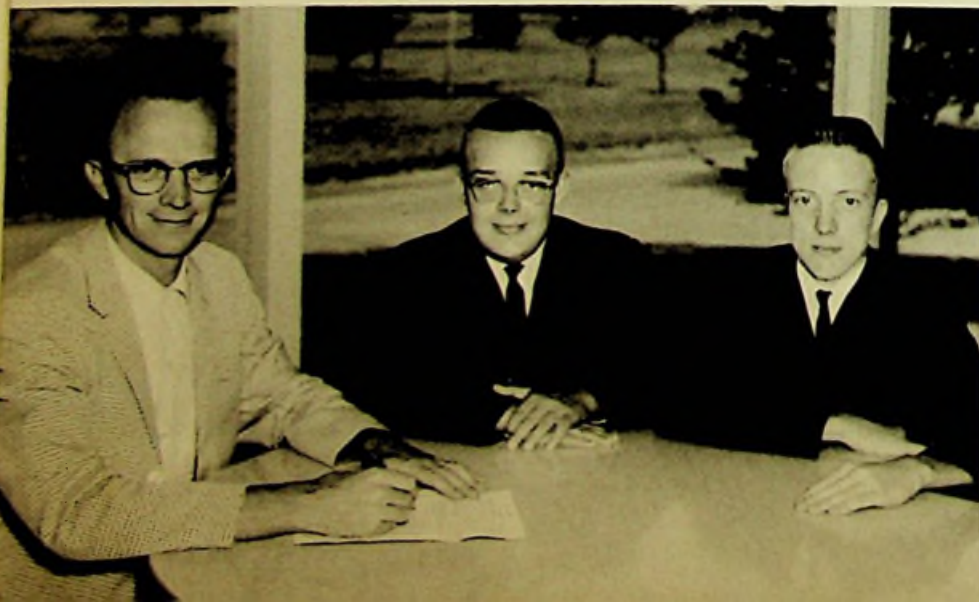

Students Practice Aims

Camera Club, although new this year, is part of a DHS tradition—that clubs should not be static and never-changing, but should represent the shifting and varied interests of the student body. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Edward Edwards, head of the art department, students in Camera Club participate in activities which help them to learn more about the various techniques involved in photography, and a better understanding of the characteristics that determine a good photograph.

Rifle Club stresses competition, good sportsmanship and the proper usage of firearms. Under the guidance of Mr. Roland Kehrberg, members participate in pistol matches with other schools, while striving to obtain awards made available by the National Rifle Association.

Bob Goulka takes careful aim at an unsuspecting subject. Beware—Camera Club is at it again.

V--V--Victory

Cheerleading is both an honor and a responsibility. In order to become a cheerleader, varsity or junior varsity, a girl must have qualifying grades, leadership, character, pep, ability and the know-how to project spirit to the crowd. DHS cheerleaders display all these qualities, as their red and white uniforms brighten the football and basketball games and pep rallies at which they cheer. Cheerleading is one of the most coveted and exacting activities at Deerfield High.

Senior quarterback, Brad Schlesinger, runs for yardage as his opponents close in.

With cheering, confetti throwing, and yelling over, Deerfield Warrior fans can proudly look back at a very successful football season. Light, fast and unpredictable became common words to describe the "Red and Grey."

Each victory had its own special significance. Elmwood Park broke the ice and showed Deerfield could win a football game. Saint Francis proved the Warriors were "for real." Victory over Glenbrook was a great win over a tough arch-rival; Forest View kept the Warrior drive going and Prospect was a great Warrior Day win, that clinched second place in the Mid-Suburban League Conference.

Rick Moore runs for yardage against St. Francis with John Lindquist (10) blocking. Other Warriors are Don LaBuda (74), Larry Temple (62), Bruce Nannini (50), Pete Kollar (60), Tom Brown (68) and Jon Larson (61).

Warrior basketball fans witnessed an exciting game when their netmen won Deerfield's first basketball game against West Leyden on December 6. Although the varsity team did not reach its peak until the Grayslake Holiday Basketball Tournament, they amazed everyone when the cagers nailed a second place trophy, losing in the finals to Grant High School 64-51.

Showing steady improvement under the watchful eye of Coach Lyle Frahm, the Warriors had to wait until the end of the season for the biggest upset of their campaign. The cagers defeated North Chicago, leader in the rugged Tri-County League, with a devastating come-from-behind rally. The question that now remained was could Deerfield beat its sister high school, Highland Park.

With the huge North Chicago High School gymnasium bursting at the seams, students continued to squeeze into the already jammed area. After the most thrilling game ever witnessed by either student body, the Warriors finally fell in an overtime playoff, losing by a final score of 56-54.

Swimming

Climaxing their season as Mid-suburban League champions, the Warrior swimmers furthered their unprecedented record by continuing in the state competition.

Sparked by Bruce Jacobsen's state championship in the 100-yard breaststroke and Bob Kircher's sixth place in the 50-yard freestyle, the swimmers capped their season by taking fifth place in the state competition.

Randy Pfeiffer places first in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 51.0 seconds, breaking the old pool record.

DIVING—Row 1: C. Robinson, J. Irvine, S. Berg, R. Schreyer, C. Walker. Row 2: Coach D. Rurey, K. Kanter, J. Pickles, L. Schessler, W. French.

State Champion Ted Parker counters his opponent.

In the general rise of sports this season, wrestling was no exception. Finishing fourth in state competition, the team had a 13-2 dual meet record.

Leading the team was senior Ted Parker who captured his second state crown. Wrestling at 120 pounds, Ted was one of the outstanding wrestlers at the state meet. Jim Clayton finished third in state competition at 95 pounds.

During the season the grapplers won two invitational tournaments. Next year they will compete in the Waukegan Christmas Tournament in which only outstanding teams are invited to participate.

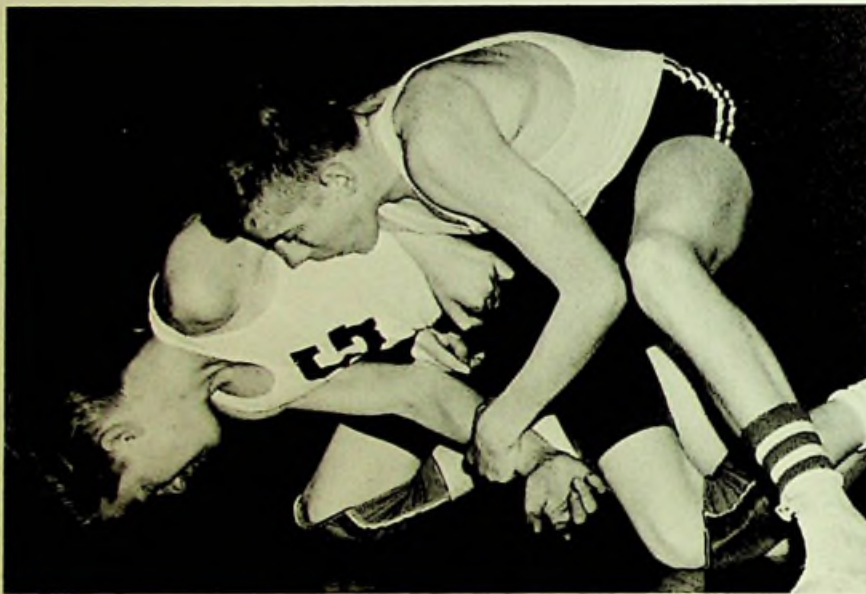

Only through desire, determination, and the excellent coaching of Mr. Tom Halford, Mr. Steve Combs and Mr. Chuck Hansen could the team have done so well.

Tennis

Varsity netmen can proudly look back upon very successful seasons. Through careful growth and training the varsity Warriors have improved with the arrival of each new season.

Under the new coaching of Mr. Lyle Frahm the Warriors have built up additional endurance, aiding them to maintain consistency in their matches and in tournament play.

VARSIITY GOLF—B. Maiorano, D. Miller, Coach J. Basset, S. Godow, S. Weiss, B. Daniels and M. Mooney.

Head Coach Jack Basset explains a local rule to his two co-captains, Bill Daniels and Skip Godow.

Golf

Varsity golf for 1963 was highlighted by two events—a third place finish in the state district at Winnetka Golf Course, and John Fleming's first place honors in the Interim League Meet.

Building a 1964 title contender and finding a replacement for last year's individual conference champion, John Fleming, was the major task of head coach Jack Bassett. Heading the list of Warriors were co-captains, Bill Daniels and Skip Godow, both three-year varsity veterans. Also seeing considerable action were Dean Miller, Myles Mooney, Brickie Maiorano, and Steve Weiss.

We have come a long way and

Our four years at Deerfield High School are a mosaic; many small and beautiful pieces making up a patterned whole. First comes our freshman year—final exams in the gyms, long corridors with no one there, boys going into the girls' swimming classes, the very first football game, "For The First Time," the first (and last) "Warriors' Annual War Dance," freshman picnic—all these things were our freshman year, 1960-1961. We were sophomores in 1961-1962, the year of "Brigadoon," of "Belles and Beaux" when the boys went around to all the sessions dressed as girls, of speeches and cut-up earthworms, of triangles and subjunctives. Then we were upperclassmen—juniors—a great year, filled with the fun of "Skin of Our Teeth", junior carnival and workday, not to mention team (that was fun?), and chemistry ("abandon hope all ye who enter here" read an appropriate sign over the chem lab door.) And then, suddenly, fresh from the shock and the relief of junior final exams, we looked around us, and there we were—SENIORS, for heaven's sake, at the top of the heap. It hit us then—next year we wouldn't be here—we would be out in the world wonderfully and frighteningly on our own. We had a lot to do this year with physics (Slinky-time, anyone?), English (dig that crazy symbolism), sociology (there are HOW many people in a small city?) and economics (the wordy philosophers), but we had more important business than ever before on our hands. So we stopped a moment in our studying and games, and began to make decisions, everyone of them shaping a life or a goal or a dream. This was our senior year.

The faces of Deerfield High School are many and varied—the different views of the building itself; the many departments and organizations that make up the school community; and most important, the people: the students, teachers and staff. This is how we on the O*YAD staff saw this year and we hope that this book provides a memorable record of the people you knew and the events that took place this year at Deerfield.

We should like to take the opportunity here to express our thanks to Mr. Knudson for all the help he has given us; to Mr. Reisig of Edwards Brothers for his assistance; to Walinger's Studio and Mr. Merner for the photography in O*YAD; and to the faculty of DHS for putting up with all of our picture taking. Having had the opportunity to work with all of these people has certainly made this year a memorable one for us.

—The O*YAD Staff
