STUDENT LIFE

In high school, the time spent outside of class is just as important as the time spent inside of class. Students choose to spend this time in many different ways. The activities may be as diverse as an after school job, snowboarding or going out for a quick bite to eat with friends. Whether it be attending dances, football games, reminiscing about summer memories or planning weekend fun, people often have the best times just being with friends. Everyone manages to find their own niche in Deerfield High School.

Senior Justin Gruby pumps up the crowd using his saxophone skills at the homecoming football game. Spirit was everywhere, students and faculty both helped keep that spirit alive which lead the Warriors to victory.

The Warriors line up against Highland Park to once again take control of the football.

The Rosenthal family is officially one of the most spirited families ever to be seen in the Warrior stands. This dedication and spirit for Deerfield football is something the games cannot do without.

spirit OF A WARRIOR

"All my life I want to be a warrior!" The same chant has been sung at Deerfield High School for generations. Homecoming provides an opportunity for both alumnists and current students to show their school spirit. The game's excitement, wild cheering, and high hopes for the football team drew spectators to the stands. Deerfield had an amazing victory against its rival Highland Park with a final score of 23-3. No one went home dissappointed.

Even before the game began students showed their support for the sports teams. Dress up days, pep rally, and general spirit flooded the halls. Decorations around the school brought additional excitement to the occasion.

VOICES SPEAK OUT

"Homecoming definitely brings the different grade levels together but more than that, students come together as a school."

Mr. Lynn, English Teacher

"The domination we had on the gridiron that day will go down in history! Also that Warrior Guy in the stands was awesome!"

Kevin Silverman, Senior

The Deerfield Pom Pons perform their much anticipated routine during half time of the game. Many hours of practicing go into the preparation of making their routine nearly flawless.

Senior Tony Santucci prepares to make another important tackle for Deerfield. Within seconds the crowd was on its feet, with applause after a spectacular Santucci tackle.

AROUND THE world

Junior girls display their spirit on class color day by wearing blue. Many students participate in Homecoming week by wearing their class colors.

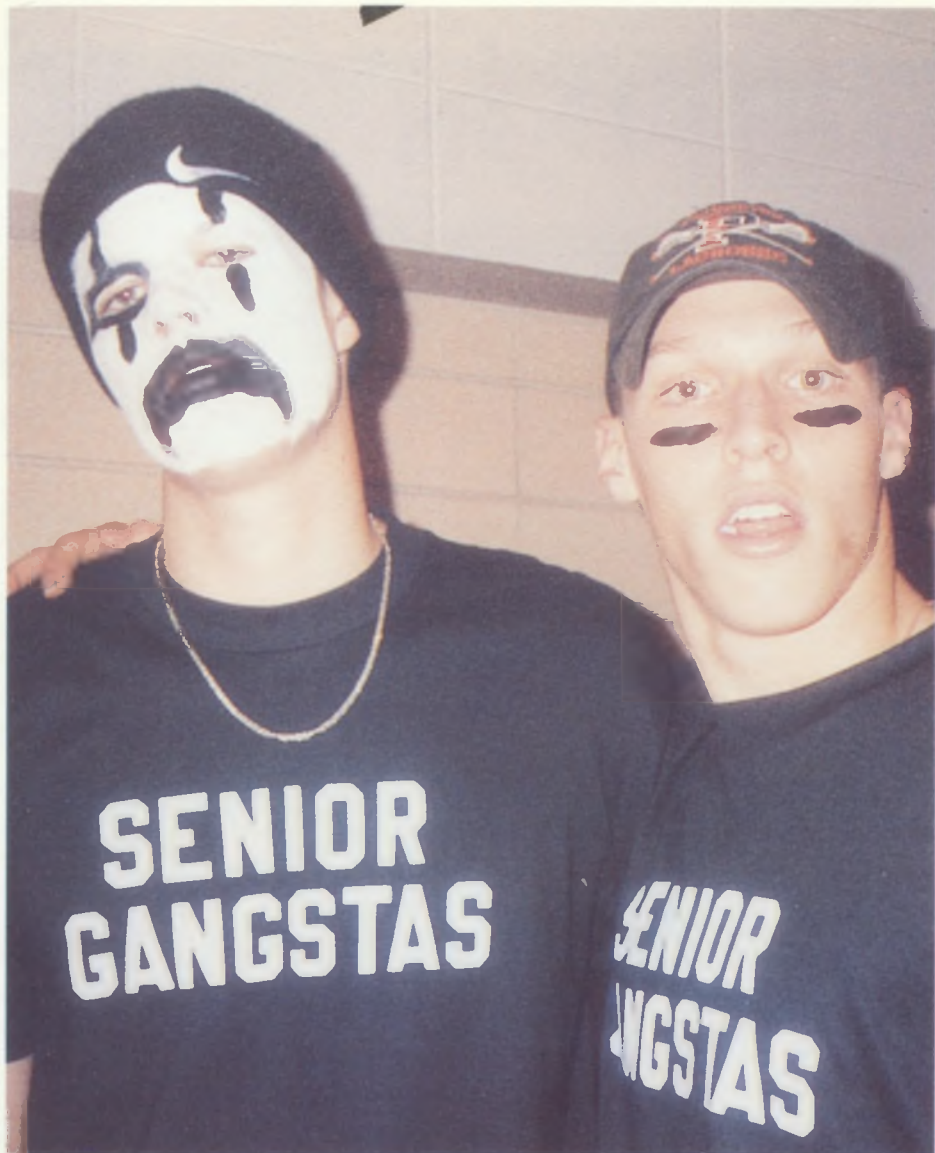

Deerfield students celebrated their victory at night in the school cafeteria. The dance began at 8:00 PM, but for many people the Homecoming experience had begun much earlier. Student Council had been planning the theme "Warriors around the World" for weeks and decorations were skillfully worked out. Giant cacti, piñatas, and other festivities transformed the cafeteria into a great place to spend time with friends. For the average student, dress or suit shopping, flower ordering, and other long term plans were perhaps decided months ahead. The actual day of Homecoming for many girls began with a trip to the beauty shop for a manicure and hair appointment while boys confirmed their reservations. The dance is only a small portion of the evening, many going out afterwards. The activities vary but trips downtown and local fun such as movie watching are always popular.

Shawn Yanklowitz and Mike Morrison prepare for an night of exuberant behavior prior to the pep rally. The traditional black get up provided seniors with an overwhelming sense of unity and power over underclassmen.

SCHOOL trends

What a trend is at Deerfield High School cannot be easily defined. For every group of people or individual the answer is different. While some prefer the flashy clothes they see in magazines such as Glamour or Seventeen others choose to buy at vintage shops. Lucky for all those at Deerfield there is no dress code and the student body for the most part is accepting of differences. Rarely is one criticized for what he choose to wear or how he expresses himself. Rather, individuality is celebrated and appreciated. "I'm really glad I go to a school that allows me so much freedom," says Senior Nick Nacey. Many students learn a lot about themselves at DHS and discover unique ways to express their beliefs and emotions.

Deerfield Commons, the quickly falling shopping center in downtown Deerfield has finally witnessed it's last day. In late September and early October, the mall was torn to the ground, to anticipate the opening of a new, improved shopping center.

Shoes can be a sign of diversity. While some choose to wear gym shoes others can be seen walking the halls in high heeled boots.

Trends not only include clothing but also many of the activities students choose to engage in. Sophomore Mike Prolofsky strums his guitar entertaining the students who walk by.

My understanding is this: By you turning to this page you are communicating to me that you would like to know about the creative folk at Deerfield High. Well, I'll tell you that they all work off of the same recipe: 1 part idea, 2 parts risk taking, and a whole lotta elbow grease. Each and every creative mind in this school whether it be involved in visual arts, the theatre, dance, chorus, band, etc. feeds on freedom... the freedom to jump out in front of the entire world and speak your mind despite all odds. So open up your think box, baby, and get ready to enter a world of shapes and colours.

SUMMER days

Summer is a time that all students look forward to the entire year. These two months are filled with fun and excitement, including time taking trips, and participating in hobbies. The summer gives students the opportunity to catch up on old times with friends, and travel to a variety of places. Students have been known to travel internationally and spend months away at an overnight camp. Summer isn't fun for everyone. Many people choose to pick up some extra credits at summer school or get a job. Employment can be both fun and stressful, but for many it is necessary to earn money for both the summer months and the school year. Junior Amanda Seruya, says, "Last summer I got to work downtown with my dad. It was a lot of fun spending time with him and I made a lot of money!"

weekend LIFE

Weekends are anticipated throughout the school week. Often it is a time for students to relax and catch up on homework. DHS students can be seen heading down to Chicago, catching a movie at the Northbrook Court theater, or hanging out with friends at the local coffee shop or someone's house. Concerts also provide a weekend diversion. Such popular groups to have traveled the city recently have been Dave Matthews Band, Phish, and Barenaked Ladies. Long weekends provide families with the opportunity to travel. College visits are always popular. For many sixteen year olds just driving around in their mom's fully loaded minivan is enough excitement for a Friday night on the wild streets of Deerfield.

Senior Becky Hagenson and Jake Jamerson hang out at Gurnee Mills. Malls are popular places to go on weekends to shop, see movies and eat.

The school play provides an outlet for students' various talents. It also allows many students to become involved in an extracurricular activity. There was a place for everyone in this year's fall play, Mother Hicks. Students interested in working behind the scenes on lights, costumes and props could join stage crew. Others who had an interest in acting auditioned for a role in the play. Preparation for the show began months before the curtains opened. Putting on a good show requires a lot of effort and devotion from both the students and faculty.

Lunch time at Deerfield High School is anticipated by students for the much needed break in the day and the chance to spend time with friends. Many students also look forward to the wonderful cafeteria food. The lines in the cafeteria are almost unmanageable on pasta day. Other popular food choices include tacos and the new slushies. Not all students buy their lunch at DHS, many bring their meals from home. Often times students choose to trade their lunches rather than eating what they brought. Outside of school, restaurants provide a popular place for friends to go and socialize. "Every day I bring a granola bar to AP Biology first period. It gives me energy for a hard day," explains junior Tracy Jacobson.

Junior Russell Boxer looks around the cafeteria for his friends and a table to sit at. Lunch is often a social time for students.

KURING Kirby

During the three weeks of school chest, students and faculty joined together to cure Kirby Wilson of the disease San Filippo. DHS went to the limit and beyond to raise money for this nobel cause. During lunch periods, before and after school students sold pancakes, pizza, tacos, snow cones, pop, used CDs, raffle tickets and more. Student Council members worked extremely hard to make this the the best School Chest ever. Junior Diane Herbstman said that she had concentrated on her homeroom's fundraising for over four weeks. Her hard work paid off as she earned over five thousand dollars for Kirby.

ACADEMICS SCHOOL

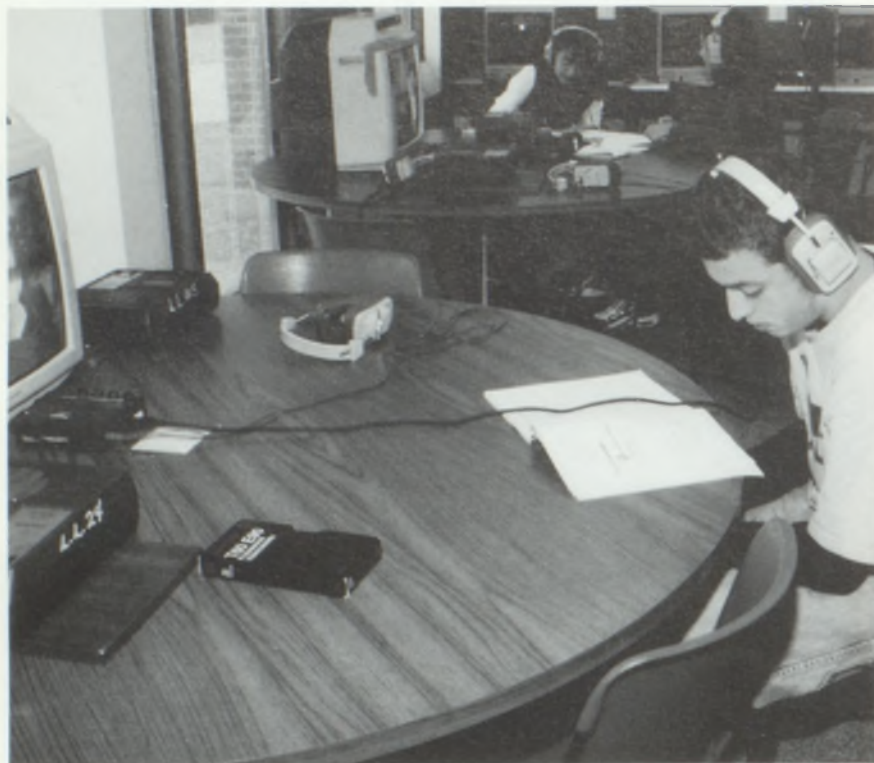

Academics play a large role in a Deerfield student's life. Spending hours in classes, students often form strong bonds with fellow classmates and teachers. The hard work put in during the school day does not end at 3:24 with the sounding of the bell.

Homework can take an individual from 15 minutes up 6 hours depending on the classes one is enrolled in. The effort is usually rewarded with good grades and increased enrichment.

Junior Jessie Darnay utilizes one of the school's many resource centers. Often foreign language requires time out side of class for programs such as "La Catrina" and "Destinos".

finding guidance in the resource CENTERS

The resource centers here at Deerfield have come to the aid of many students over the years. The WERCS and WERCS + are always ready to help any student in need of assistance on English assignments. These centers excel in proofreading essays, brainstorming ideas, and helping analyze various books and stories. "The WERCS is a place that fosters literary exchange," Say seniors Linda Trieu and Ben Schuster. The Math Lab will help you with any math problem you have, no matter how high the level of difficulty is. Other resource centers abound, and if ever in need of some help or advice, the resource centers are there to help any student.

Students concentrate as they listen and speak in the Speaking Lab. This lab gives spanish students a chance to perfect their spanish speaking skills.

The DHS library is a great place to do research because of the variety of materials and internet access. Junior Philip Trieu work hard in the library on a U.S History assignment..

quality time spent on HOMEWORK

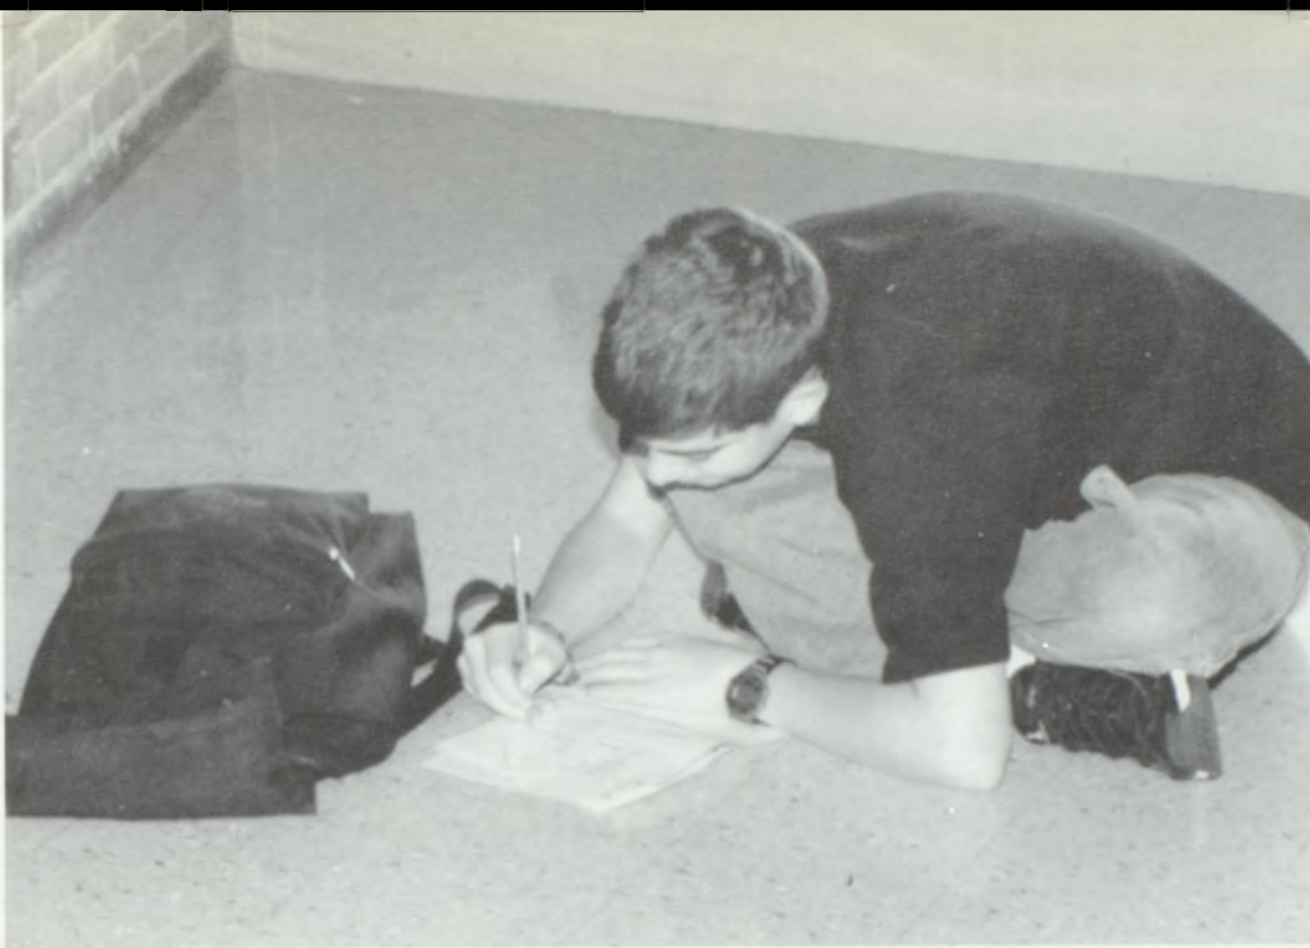

Homework often causes students both satisfaction and frustration. Many feel that they are assigned too much while some believe that they truly gain valuable information from the hard work put in at home. Whatever the case, the average student could work between 2 and 6 hours a night depending on the classes one takes. Some even complain about over 2 hours in a specific class a night. However, students find creative ways to enjoy homework by either listening to music or discussing aspects of it with friends. Students can be seen trying to get last minute work finished throughout the school either in the library or

Students can be found in the library studying at almost any time of the day. The library provides the resources needed to do almost any school assignment.

Senior Carey Williams gets computer assistance from Mrs. Martin. Often students go to teachers for help on their assignments and homework. Teachers are a valuable resource to our students.

Here at DHS, every student finds their own unique place to do their homework. For some there is nothing like a cold floor to take care of work.

Concentrating on taking notes, these seniors work hard to perfect their class work so that night's homework won't be as straining. Many seniors work hard during class so they will have more free time after school.

teacher and student RELATIONS

For approximately 8 hours a day 5 days a week students are with their teachers. Whether listening to a lecture, watching a demonstration, getting one-on-one help, or asking a question, its no doubt that the students at DHS get to know their teachers well. But aside from the classrooms, many teachers participate in students' lives by staying after school tutoring students, sponsoring clubs and activities, coaching sports, and providing guidance. "I have a great relationship with most of my teachers. In fact, I gave Mr. Esgar my e-mail address to send me my grade once. It's always nice to know that teachers are willing to go that extra step." Says Senior Kim Tracz

As students gather around in amazement, Mr. Regan demonstrates the art of graphic design on his computer. Students who take graphic design learn how to design items for different kinds of publications.

hours spent getting into COLLEGE

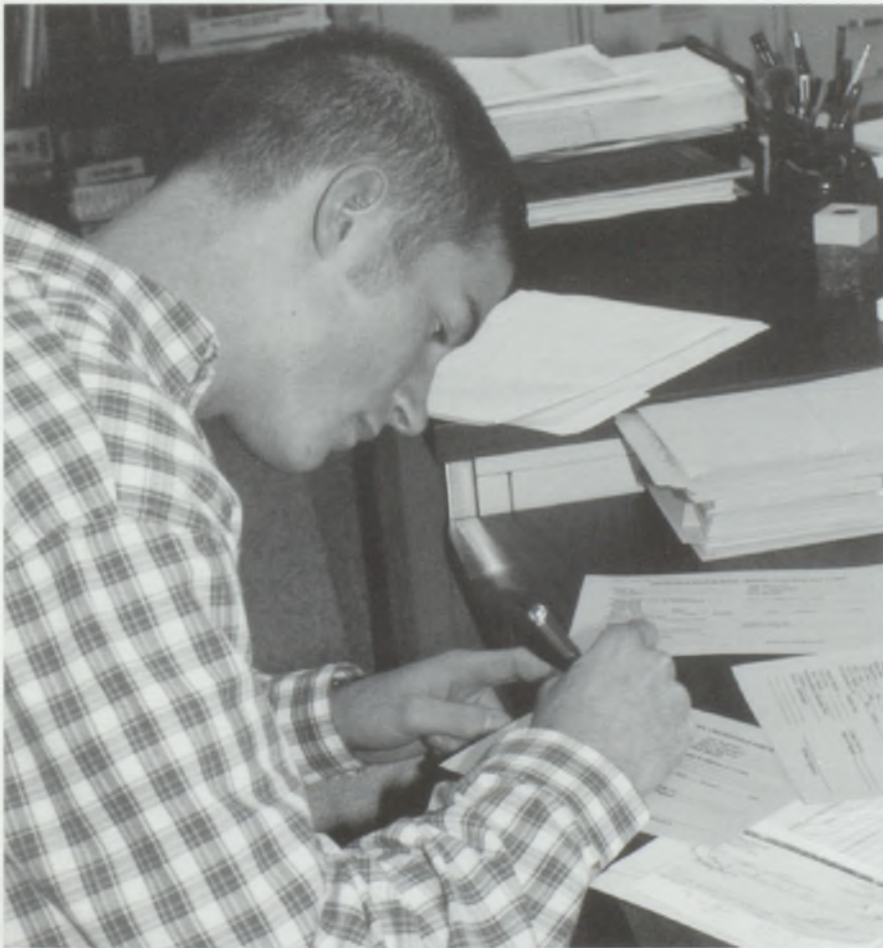

The College Career Resource Center provides students with the opportunity to explore their future options. The staff is present nine periods of the day is often willing to meet with students and family in the evening. The CCRC helps with the entire college process. Helping the student to think realistically about college and eventually helping them to complete applications. Commonly DHS seniors can be seen asking for help on essay questions and personal statements. Juniors take advantage of the wide variety of resources about higher education including books, video cassettes, and computer programs.

(TOP) Mrs. Keefe looks something up for a student on the computer. (TOP) Because Deerfield is up to date with technology, nearly everything about every student is on a computer. (BOTTOM) Mrs. Luskin helps Senior Ben Schuster fill out an application.

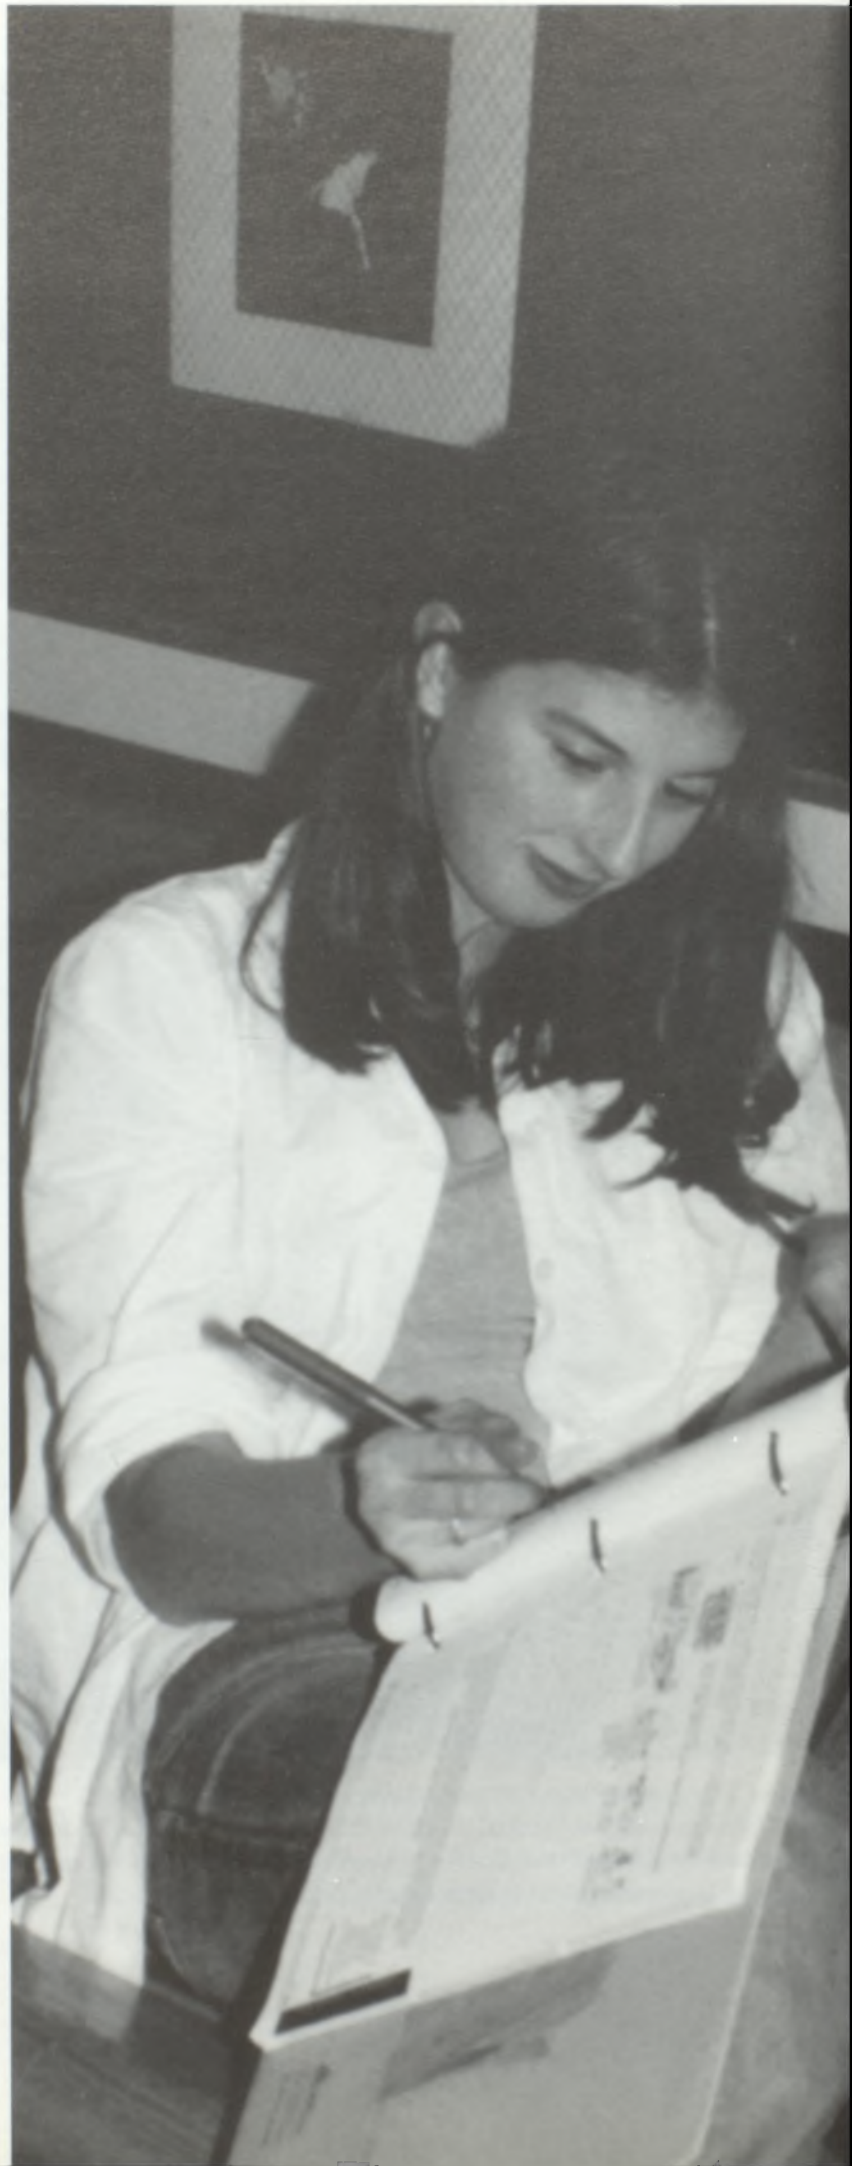

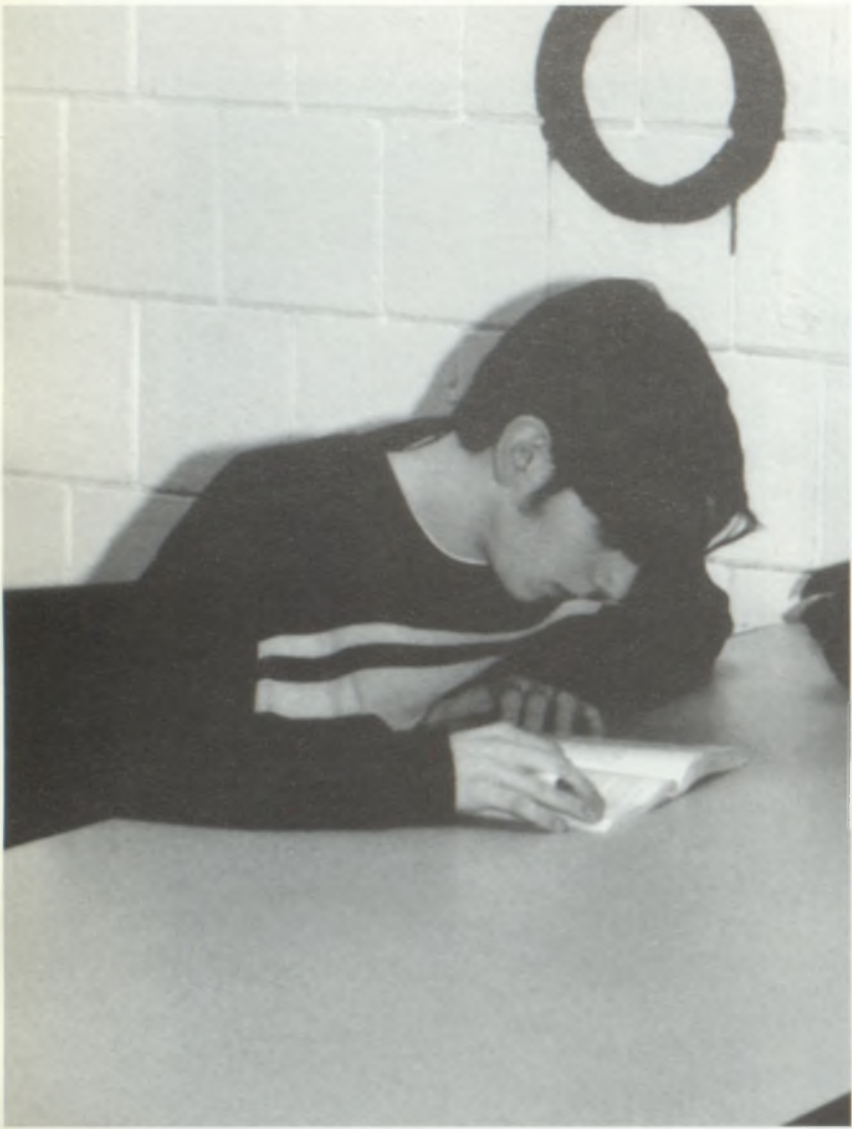

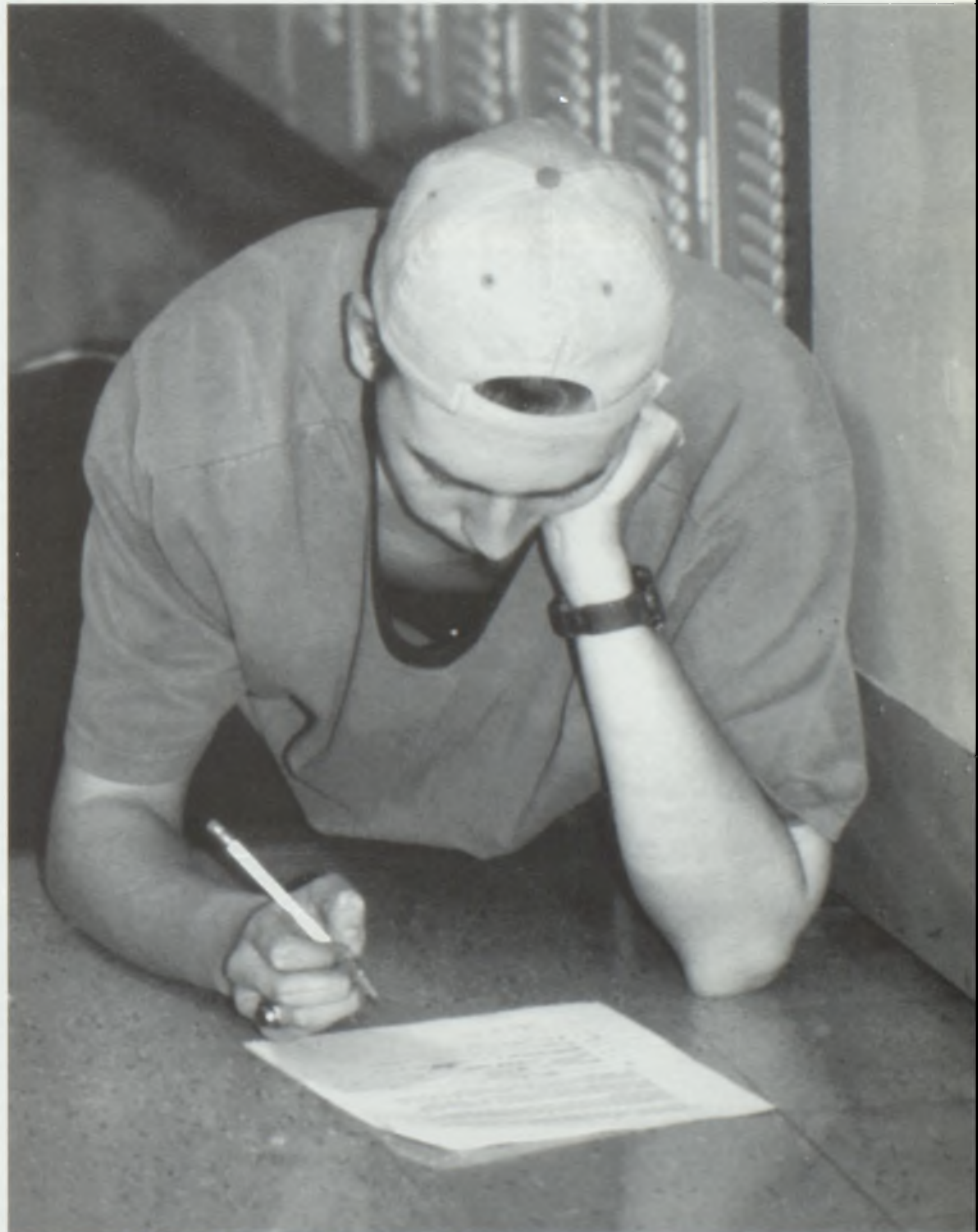

Senior Kevin Silverman finishes one of his many college applications in the CCRC. With the help of the CCRC, students can apply to more than one school. The CCRC helps the students decide which schools to apply to and which schools they can get in to.

Senior John Butler fills out an application release form in the CCRC. The CCRC made sure that applications got out in time. Senior Misha Yanovsky gets some help from Mrs. Kravets on his application. An expert on the application process, Mrs. Kravets was always there to help.

Mrs. Lava-Luskin critiques a personal essay. Often the faculty in the CCRC we imperative in assisting with the writing of personal statements. Mrs. Lieberman looks over some papers in CCRC. She provided great help to many students (Bottom).

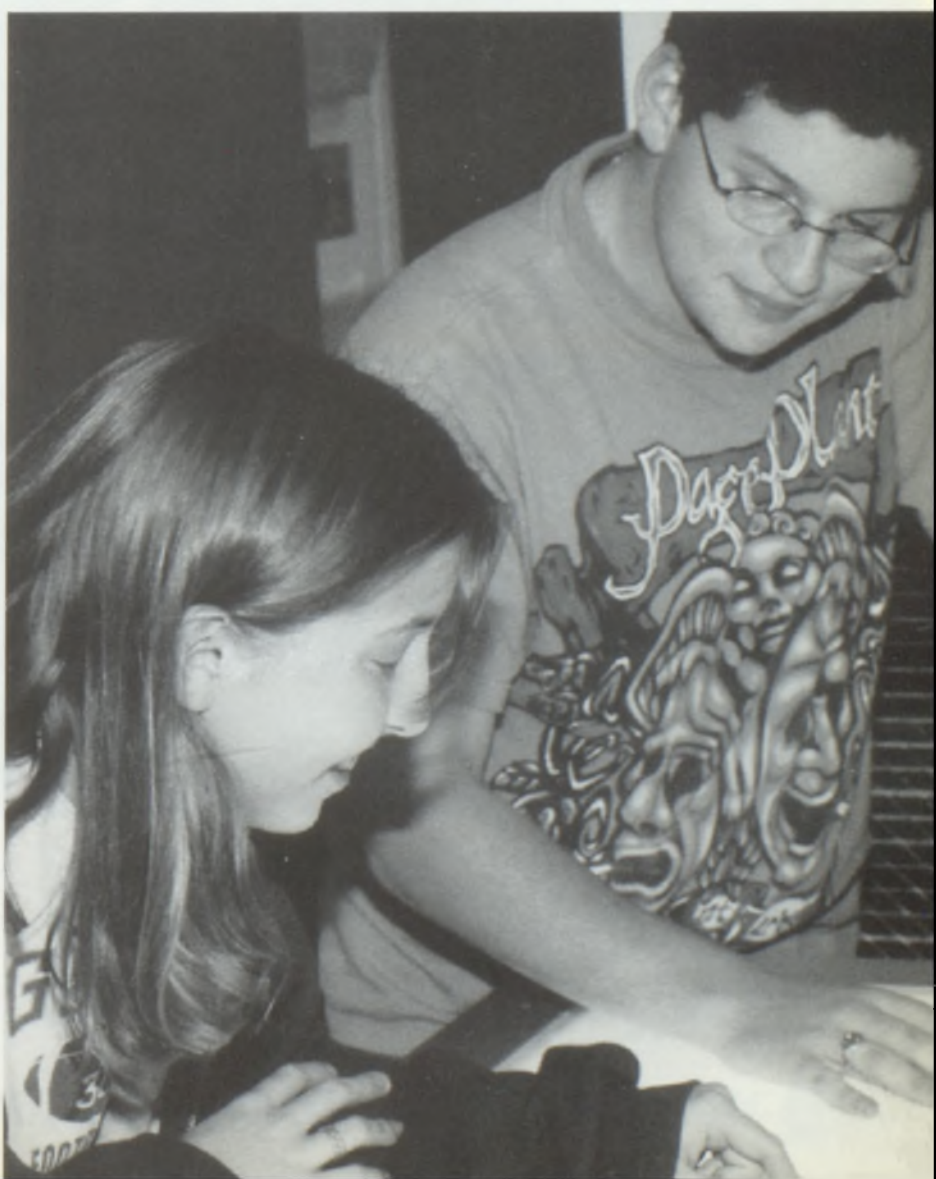

ORGANIZATIONS CLUBS

Organizations and clubs supplement an already busy student's life. Yet, many would never pass up an opportunity to join just one more activity. There seems to be organizations for just about every kind of person at Deerfield. Whether one likes music, art, or debate there is a program available at DHS. Often these organizations add depth to a high school experience and allow students to encounter both upper and underclassmen they normally would have never met. Similar interests usually foster long lasting friendships between both students and the adult sponsor.

Jazz Band, Marching Band, Symphonic Band, Wind Ensemble

Throughout the year the school bands have demonstrated that hard work and dedication lead to superb performances. For many, band is a break from a stressful school environment. Students often claim that playing music alleviates tension and allows them to express themselves creatively. There is a great camaraderie between band members and is a popular activity at DHS.

putting on the show

Theatrix, Stage Crew

Through a variety of tasks including building, painting, lighting, and running the sound system, the stage crew brings magic to all theatrical and musical events at Deerfield. Many long hours of work after school and Saturday's all pay off when the house is full and the curtains open. All of the hard work comes alive as the lights reflect off the actors as their voices echo through the auditorium. In collaboration with our talented actors, these technicians help to put on professional looking shows. Theatrix members enhance their creative skills through games and put on a show towards the end of the year.

Junior Dahlia Weinberg (RIGHT) reaches to fix a lighting cue on stage.

Developing a lighting plot and cues for the show takes many hours of work and an understanding of lighting and sound.

The girls on cheerleading, pom pons, dance troupe, and tumblers work hard through out the year to present successful routines for the student body to enjoy. The cheerleaders and Pom Pon squad entertain during football and basketball games. However, the pep rally is the largest and most awaited production. This year the DHS tumblers put together a great show called "No Limit". It was widely attended by students, parents, and faculty.

These four seniors had the opportunity to choreograph their last performance at DHS. They had fun presenting their routine to the student body. Their experiences for the past four years on the Tumblers would always be treasured.

If you like to debate, Student Congress is the right place for you. Student Congress team members draft bills, debate, and eventually vote on bills at district Tournaments. Some students further their political interest by joining Model United Nations. Each member represents a foreign country similar to an ambassador and at national conferences tries to find resolutions to current world conflicts. DECA members, comprised of prospective business people, spend countless hours role playing different business situations in order to prepare for the regional and state competition in the Spring.

Student Council, Activity Board, Student Curriculum Committee

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, parents of Kirby, thank the Deerfield High School student body for their generous fundraising. This year Student Council raised close to $53,000 young Kirby Wilson who suffers from San Filippo B, a genetic disease.

Deerfield High School's Student Council, Student Activity Board, and Curriculum Committee give students the opportunity to express their opinions about the school environment. Often these student organizations have a huge affect on the administration's policies and the life of an average DHS student. Every year Student Council sponsors School Chest, an activity which spans three weeks.

SOS, CARE, REACH

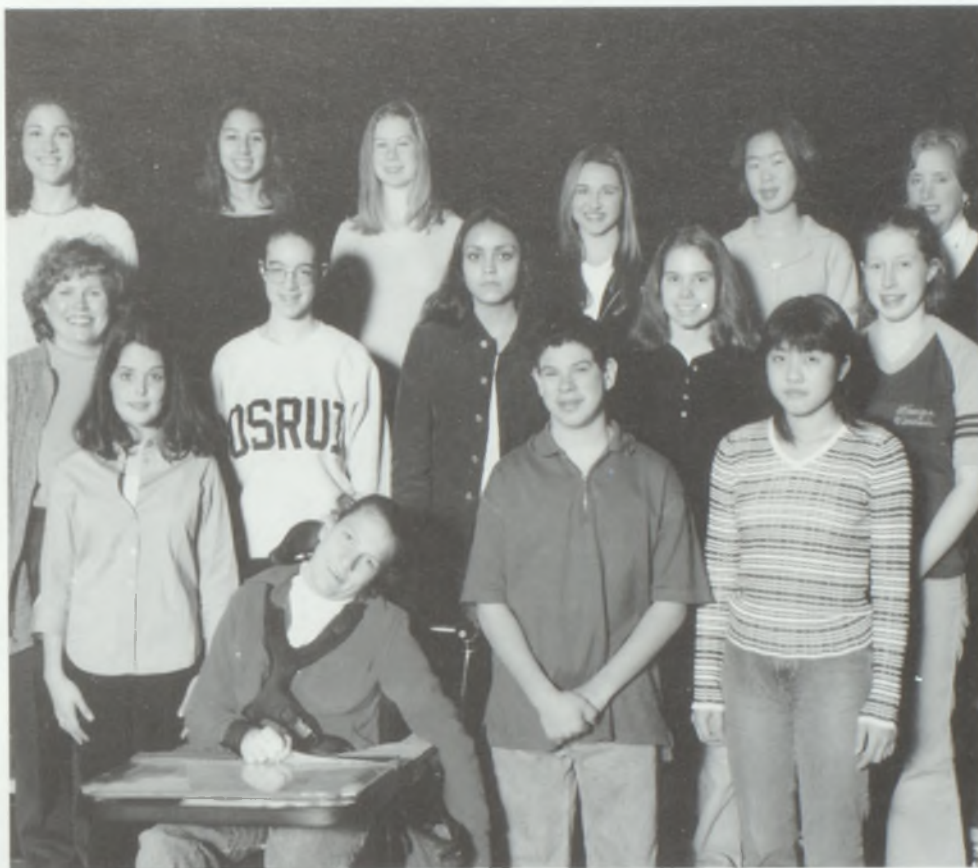

Students at Deerfield are often interested in helping themselves and others. There are many support groups and organizations interested in reaching out and aiding individuals with problems. For example, SOS prides itself of charity work and yearly visits Taylor Home children. CARE allows students to share their feelings about issues in their own lives. Sophomore Lauren Renken said, "CARE is fun because we get to discuss various topics with people and get new ideas in a friendly environment." REACH is designed to help ensure a drug free environment at Deerfield High School.

Snowball, Peer Helping

Peer Helping allows students to talk to other students about their problems. This organization provides an outlet for students when they feel uncomfortable sharing dilemmas with their parents and teachers. Furthermore, it helps new students feel welcome to DHS by members helping newcomers find their classes, meet their new teachers, and being acquainted with fellow classmates.

Similarly, Snowball is a drug and abuse prevention program. It helps build students' self-esteem, maintain healthy relationships, and fight off drug abuse. Students from DHS and Highland Park High School work in coordination to offer a program for junior high students called Operation Snowflake.

French and Spanish Honor Societies, National Honor Society

Students are recognized for their outstanding academic achievement through their acceptance to one of the three honor societies. National Honor Society required that each member must be involve with the community whether it is early bird tutoring or volunteering at a hospital. Members donated toys, made Halloween cards, and wrote pen pal letters as part of the Tic-Toc project. Spanish Honor Society annua adopt a hispanic family and make their Christmas wishes come true. Also, few students spent an hour mentoring children from Oak Terrace. They improve the children's social skills and academic areas. Earthworks and Swim Guard

Deerfield students have a great love for both the environment and children. In the organization Earthworks students work together to protect their natural surroundings. Often the club produces television commercials which they air on WDHS. These messages urge others to recycle and respect the environment. Also, Earthworks often takes field trips to the local nature preserve. Swim Guard also enjoys being active in the community. Every Saturday morning, students train and improve their swimming skills. However, what members enjoy most is providing lessons to the children of the Deerfield community.

VICTORY FOUND SPORTS

The long hours spent practicing, working out, and making up homework can often seem endless. However, the glory of victory is reward enough for the extreme sacrifice that DHS athletes have to make. But sports isn't just about victory either. The friendships that are made through a sports team can last for a lifetime. The athletes on the following pages not only play for the thrill of competition, but because they love the sports they play.

football

This year's football team finished with a 5-4 record, just barely missing the state playoffs. Quarterback Mac Mansavage's last second pass against Maine South was intercepted and ended the Warriors season. However, this ending doesn't accurately fit the Warriors' season. Several tough breaks and close losses caused this year's talented team to fall short. Senior running backs Brian Hoders and David Byrd led the offensive attack, while Mike Emalfarb, Rob Clancy, and team MVP Jon Cooke carried the strong defensive line.

TEAM RECOLLECTIONS

This year's team was a great bunch of guys. I really love those guys. (Sniffle, sniffle)

-Dan Mayer-

We should've won it all. What a team!

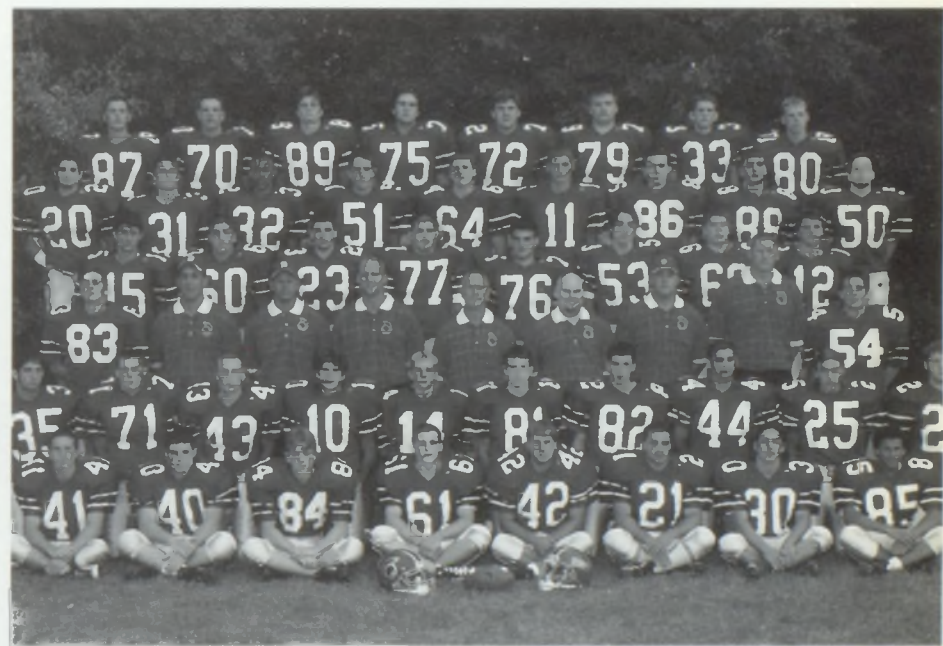

-Mike Emalfarb-

It was a great season, but I wish it could've ended on a better note.

-Harley Rosenthal-

I better get to play more next year, because there's nothing like the feeling of getting into the game.

tennis

This year's tennis team continued its success from previous years despite the injuries that hounded the squad. With Emily Seely-Brown recovering from a torn ACL ligament and Barrie Bloom suffering a severely sprained ankle, the team's extremely talented players pulled Deerfield to a top contender in the state tournament. Sophomore singles Laura Levin and doubles team, juniors Chelsea Kammerer and Kate Johnstone, all competed downstate. With competitive younger players, their success will be carried for future years.

TEAM RECOLLECTIONS

"Spraining my ankle was frustrating, but it motivated me to play better when I came back."

-Barrie Bloom-

"As the season went on, I felt more comfortable about my knee."

-Emily Seely-Brown-

The year started off on a bad note after senior captain Danny Dorman suffered a season-ending injury before the season ever began. The defense, headed by Anthony DiClementi, Bob Rosenstiel, and Bart Ruggiero, helped to pick up the slack for the missing captain. Senior offensive players Dan Carver, Tommy Odlaug and Jeff Wolfe were named to the All-Sectional team. Despite their talent, the team still struggled to live up to the high expectations placed on them from their successful previous season, and they finished with a record just under .500.

-Lara Vignocchi-

"Usually the front row got sick because of bad food for breakfast."

-Tanya Oxley-

"Our team dinners were the best because we bonded over telling funny stories and eating great food."

-Betty Manley

This season's volleyball team did not bond only on the court. At team dinners, players ate and told jokes while growing together as a team. Seniors enjoyed the benefits of being on the team for their last year. Recalling the juniors kidnapping late at night, senior Christine Parker laughed, "It was so much fun. The juniors covered us with dog food, bacon, ketchup, and all this other disgusting food."

This was the first year the CSL held an all-star volleyball game. Seniors Christine Parker and Lara Vignocchi were recognized as top athletes from Deerfield.

BOYS golf

This year's golf team was perhaps the most successful in DHS history. At one point during the season, the team was ranked number 4 in the state, and they had a huge win against number 1 ranked New Trier. Seniors Kent Creaseman and Jordan Wood led the strong group of golfers in their quest for glory. The team advanced past the regional round of the state playoffs, but was unfortunately defeated during sectionals. Next year, freshman Matt Salstone and junior Barry Kessler look to lead the team to a repeat performance.

TEAM RECOLLECTIONS

"This year was all about team unity, that's what made us so successful."
-Jason Ugolini-

"We were so successful because we got such low scores. (Hahaha)"
-Kent Creaseman-

"I like the fact that we had a lot of team dinners."
-Jordan Wood-

"Even though I never played, I still felt like an important part of the team."

swimming & diving

TEAM RECOLLECTIONS

"This year's team really didn't get the recognition and publicity that I feel we deserved."
Mike Zalay

"Swimming is the only sport that has a mix of upperclassmen and underclassmen, and that makes it unique."
Justin Gruby

This year's swimming team had many ups and downs. Led by senior captains Mike Zalay, Sel Skevin, and surprising freshman Ben Abrams the Warriors sported a strong front line. However, their lack of depth hurt and they failed to win a meet. The diving team once again had a strong season anchored by the hard work of seniors Tony Santucci and Phil Gerber.

Swimmers and divers are some of the most dedicated athletes in the school. Practices before and after school demanded the greatest effort and concentration. This season, many unfortunate injuries and illnesses tested the swimmers' determination. Despite the loss of senior captain Julia Soya early in the season, they were able to defeat rival Glenbrook North in their own pool and become conference co-champs. Seven athletes represented Deerfield in state competition. Divers also turned out gutsy performances, which put Deerfield on track for victory.

FIELD HOCKEY & GIRLS GOLF

TEAM RECOLLECTIONS

-Emily Kurth-

"Don't be deceived by the skirts!"

-Cherry Rafael-

"We're always tired. Our mental concentration wears us out."

-Elana Hokin-

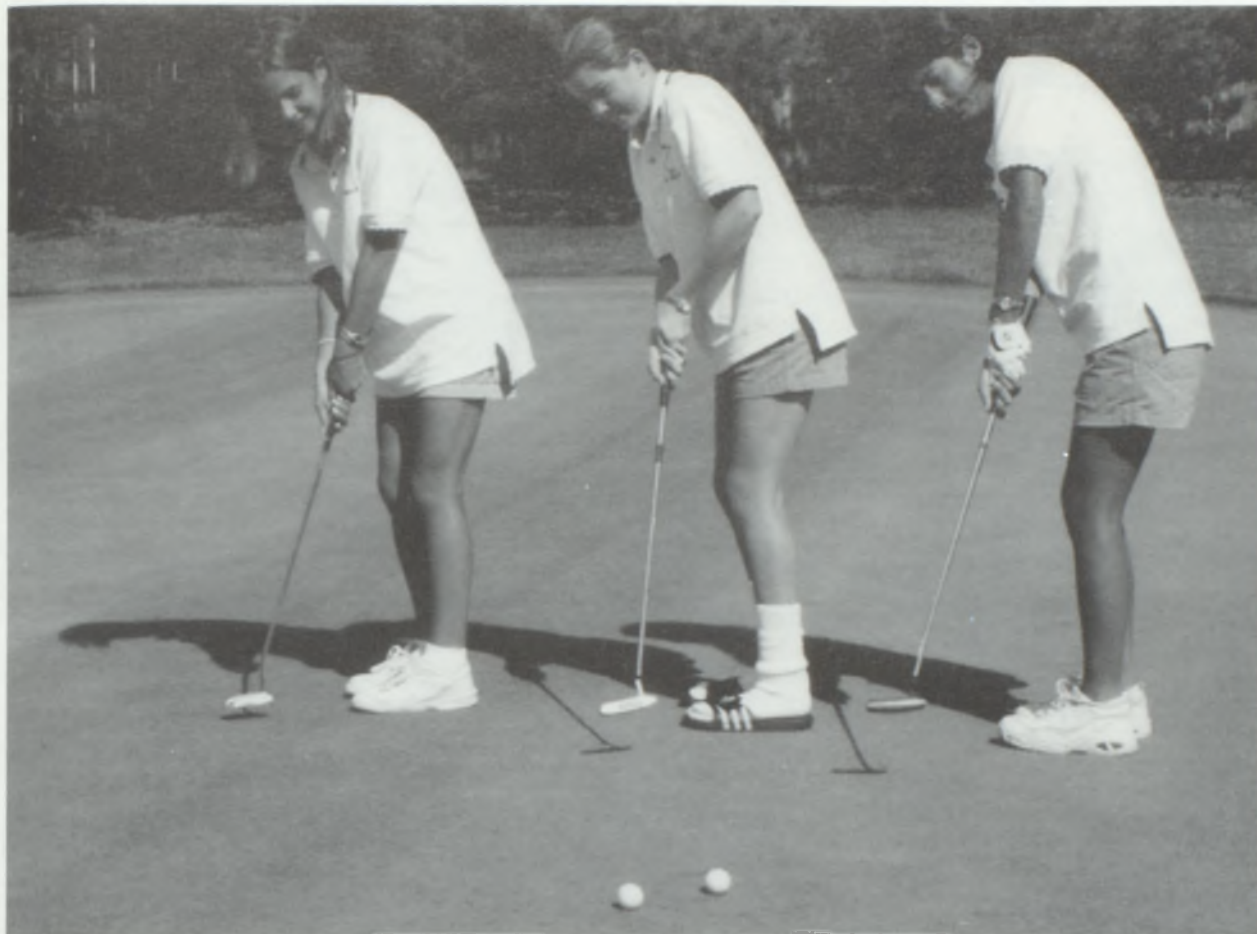

The field hockey team achieved many long-awaited victories this season. By having enthusiasm and positive attitudes, the team was able to improve their record from last year. Leadership was provided by all members of the team, especially the seven seniors. Girls' golf's lone senior, Jamie Swartz, contributed to their success as well. Juniors Carrie Baizer and Janie Dim received all-conference honors. Golf's success has increased its popularity in the school.

ice hockey

The DHS Warriors Hockey team took this season to rebuild and take stock, entering a new season with an almost entirely different team. The team had a newer, younger look, mainly because the Varsity lost twelve seniors after the end of last year, and injuries early in the hockey season left the team several players short-handed.

Capping off the new look, the team hired a completely new professional coaching staff, including Varsity Head Coach Mike Bromberg (Advance Scout/Player for the Chicago Wolves), and Assistant Coach Gary Baluta (Former NHL goalie and last year's coach of the United States National Junior Team, playing in Switzerland).

Another key note was the absence of player experience on the team, with Varsity captain Josh Nadolna representing the only Senior. Juniors Anthony Versino and Ed "Sparky" Parks were elected as assistant captains for the Varsity. The JV played exceptionally well, considering that a shortage of players forced the team to compete with only eight skaters.

With a huge number of Juniors and Sophomores returning next year, plus a big turnout of incoming Freshmen, look for the Warriors to dominate next season, as they strive for a Metro North Championship.

-Jen Garfield-

"Cross country really puts your body to the test. I have to be in peak physical condition."

-Dan Cooper-

"Everyone proved to be a leader on this team. We feel motivated when teammates cheer for us."

-Jessica Lensch-

Running cross-country requires dedication and focus, but having fun with teammates eases the strains of their hard work. An anonymous source from the girls' team shared, "It was easier to face the challenge when that certain soccer or football player was practicing at the same time."

Both the boys and girls teams were able to carry on the tradition of cross country success in past years. Juniors Craig Mandell and Ellie Nick represented Deerfield in the sectional meet.

gymnastics

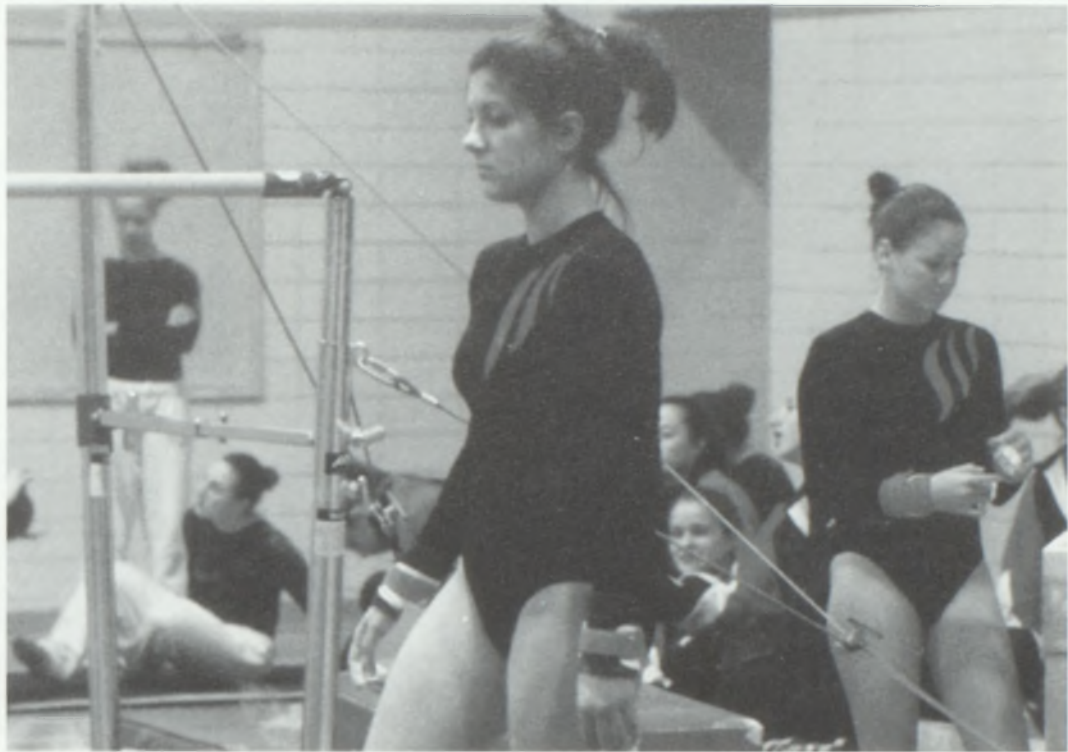

Continuing the legacy of past success, the outstanding talents of the girls gymnastics team reached unparalleled heights in competition. The varsity team again clinched the Regional title, with five team members advancing to the sectional meet. Junior sensation Jenn Burt suffered an unexpected injury that disabled her from competing in the sectionals. Sophomore Jenny Zabinsky captured the second place all-around title in the regionals while sophomore Lindsay Blanas executed her balance beam performance to perfection, launching her to represent Deerfield in the state competition.

wrestling

This year's team was led by the campaigns of two very successful senior wrestlers, David Coleman and Mike Emalfarb. By the time of sectionals, Emalfarb amounted an incredible record of 30-1, truly a remarkable accomplishment. However, with Christopher Soya and other juniors returning, Coach Battista will surely be able to carry on Deerfield's tradition of wrestling excellence.

GIRLS basketball

The 1998-99 girls' basketball team underwent a complete turnaround this season under the tutelage of first-year coach Greg Kapsimalis. Coach Kaps was often out scouting after intense practices in order to prepare his team for its difficult schedule. The efforts of both the team and coaching staff allowed such unprecedented victories as a road win at St. Ignatius and a three-peat against GBN. Earning a home regional game was the crowning achievement of the season. The extraordinary work of the team this year set the foundation for success in years to come.

basketball

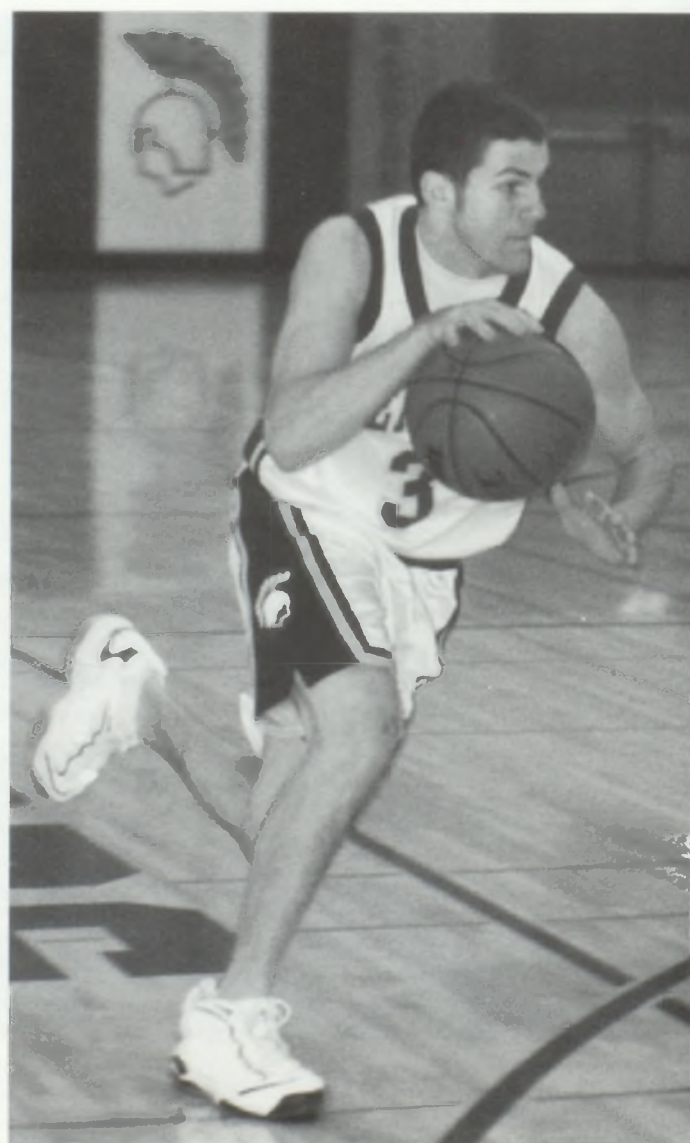

This year's team played a very respectable season, showing that the glory days of Deerfield Basketball still linger in the hearts of many fans. The team was led by seniors Brett Skolnik, Mike Morrison, and Kent Creaseman. Several juniors such as Dan Haughney and Mac Mansavage also stepped up their game to compete with the seniors. Many highlights were noted throughout the season, and many fans attended each game. As usual, the exciting rivalry between Deerfield and Highland Park showed very eventful both times this year, and Deerfield came away with the victory each time.

TEAM RECOLLECTIONS

MANY FACES OF PEOPLE

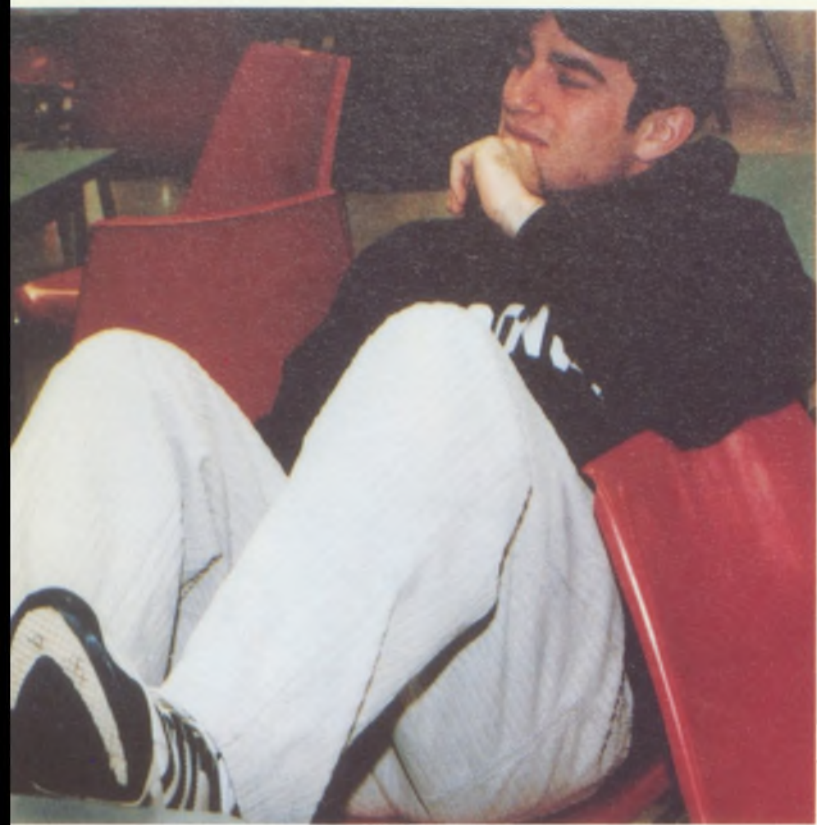

The faces at Deerfield High School reflect a wide variety of interests, talents, and abilities. It is the unique qualities of every individual at DHS that makes the school what it is and forms its character.

Almost all students at Deerfield know the members of their own graduating class and have at least some contact with either upper or lower classmen.

Usually the bonds students make are a result of the extracurriculars they choose and the classes they take. It is this intimacy present at Deerfield High School that makes it a great place to be.

-AN ODE TO SENIOR YEAR-

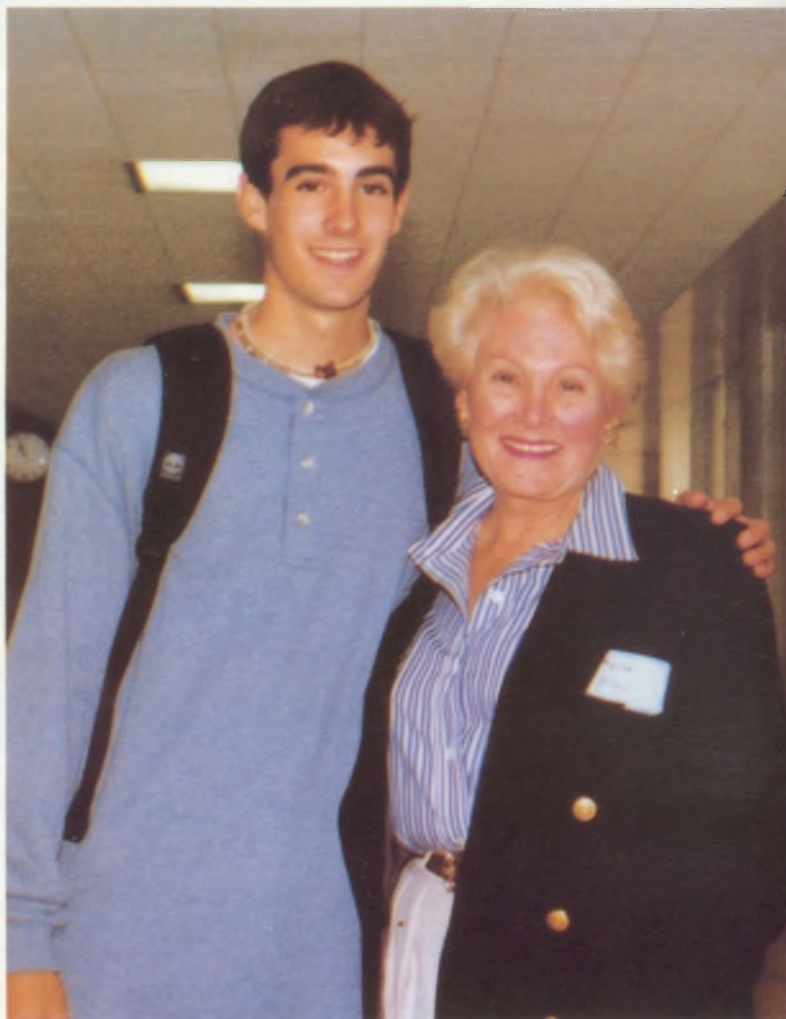

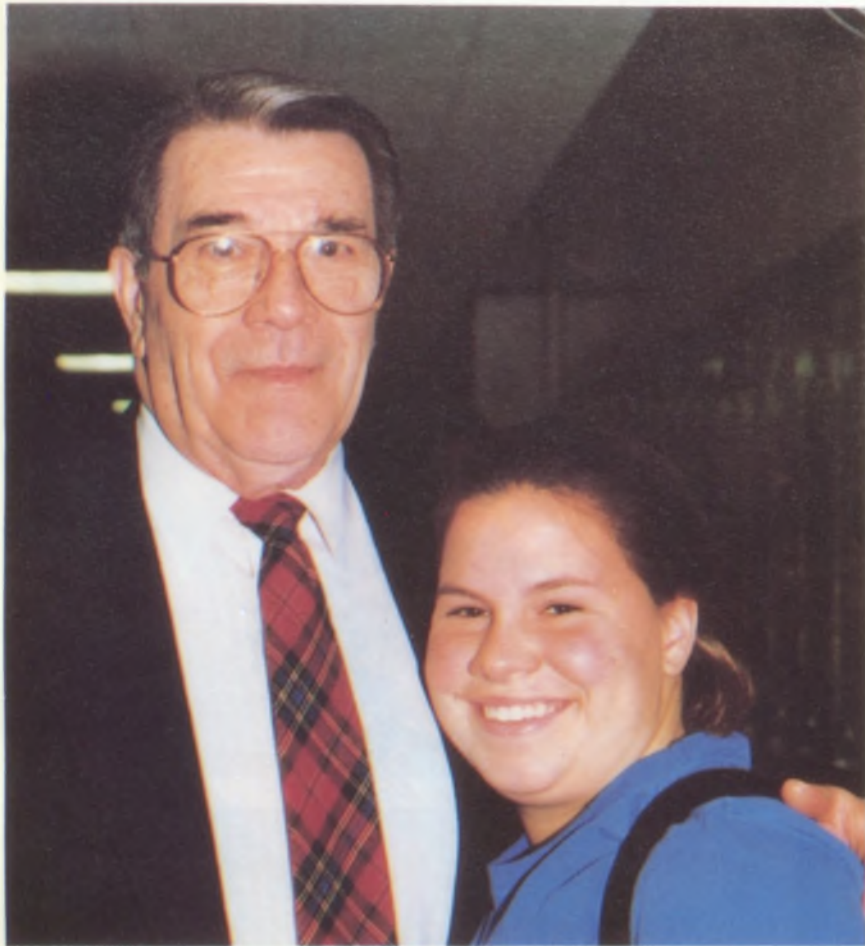

We've been together four long years, through good times, bad times, laughter, and tears. We started out as freshman, when we thought we were so cool, then we were "big" seniors who ruled the school.

The First class motto was what we abided by, "Be respectful, neat and don't ever lie". At football, basketball and soccer games, we supported our friends by cheering their names. The senior spirit jug was our claim to fame, Worship us Sovereign Seniors was our great name. Clad in black, screaming our cheer, with the crowns on our head, this was our year. Applying to schools- oh what a pain, and choosing a college was a horrible game. But wherever we go we're bound to have fun, no parents no gym, and no curfew at one. We had our moments, some lead to fights, but we always looked forward to our weekend nights. The food court at N.B.C is all that's around, there was nothing to do in this boring town. But, despite that fact, we did stick together, we made our own fun, no matter the circumstances or the weather. We wasted our gas driving around aimlessly, trying to find a happening party to end our misery. The turning point came--our graduating day, it set us off in a completely different way. New goals, new dreams, new things to aspire, new standards, new settings, and a desire to reach higher. And to the class of '99, just one more thing to say, Good luck throughout the rest of time,

And don't let your high school memories fade away.

SPOTLIGHT

Ellie Nick

Since her freshman year in high school, Junior Ellie Nick has concentrated on her passion, running. Every morning this summer she awoke at 6:30 AM to run before her day began. She also attended PAAVO running camp in Missouri. Her hard work paid off well this season. She was top in the conference, continued on to compete in sectionals, and ran well in invitationals. Ellie is also sixteenth in Lake County out of all female cross country runners. Ellie continues to be inspired by all professional, female runners and all the freshmen on the team who work so hard.

SPOTLIGHT

Loren Silvertrust

Loren Silvertrust has spent a life in music. Her father plays cello and she began to play violin when only 4 years old. Her appreciation of classical music has allowed her to press her musical talent to the limit. Last year she made it the All-State orchestra competition and won a solo contest at Deerfield High School. She has been the concert master often for the Deerfield High School and Highland Park High School orchestra. Recently she began playing the electric violin in order to participate in the STUNTS band. In the future, Loren hopes to enjoy music and continue her study of the violin. She hopes to make music that others will appreciate.

O*YAD

Craig Hurvitz, Editor In Chief

Well, you finally made it! Congratulations! Even though your true love is pool, we know deep down your real passion is designing spreads and writing copy. You burn the best CDs, have the funniest stories, and actually make "arrows" interesting. It's been great with you as the editor-in-chief. Good luck next year! We'll miss you.

Jordan Kanarek, Assistant Editor

After four years on the yearbook, your hard work and commitment never ceases to amaze us. This yearbook would never be what it is without your countless hours contributed working on it. Though your stories tend to have no point, and your jokes have no punchlines, however you still manage to keep J112 exciting. Have a great time at college next year and keep in touch.

Lauren Samuels, Managing Editor

You brought sunlight to a room with 10 windows. But seriously, your four long years with O*YAD have been much appreciated. We've listened to each of your mixes 100 times each, and heard your favorite groups and opinions on music just as much, but that can't even compare to what you've done to help us with putting out a great book.

Kim Tracz, Photography Editor

This yearbook would not be what it is without your photographs and cropping skills. Whenever a big event took place, we could always count on you being in the front row snapping pictures. We are truly grateful for that. Thanks for everything and have a great time next year.

Tracy Jacobson, Copy Editor

We are always impressed by your intelligence and determination in and out of school. So, next year as we all go our separate ways, we will miss you, your stress, many sleepless nights, anxiety, and frustration all which pertain to the yearbook. We are warning you, get out while you can! Good luck next year.

We would also like to thank the many people who contributed to the yearbook. Sarah Mick, our junior/student life editor, thanks for your creativity. Teri Sobel and Lindsay Druzik, our senior editors, your countless pictures and time really helped us. Barrie Bloom and Jessie Ruewer, who were in charge of the senior tribute section, we'd be lost without you. Also, many thank yous go out to Caitlyn Ostrow, There Gandor, Peggy Hong, and Janet Hong. Nick Nacey somehow seemed to get his homework, Deerprints, and OYAD work to come together on time. We'd also like to express our gratitude to Jamie Riegelhaupt, David Thompson, Christine Kelly, Chris Naylor, Brittany Roth, Laura Cunniff, Dan Elbaum and Yu Jung Kim. Ms. Madura, who stayed countless hours and dealt with a hundred different computer problems, you are the best.

Lastly, we would like to thank the greatest sponsor ever, Ms. Dorigan. Thank you for keeping us focused, reminding us about deadlines, and helping everything be as organized as possible. Thank you so much, everyone!
