STUDENT LIFE

"Man is so made that he can only find relaxation from one kind of labor by taking up another." - Anatole France

LIFE

SCHOOL

There's a life outside of high school? Some of the greatest moments of high school life occur outside of the doors of DHS. Each summer, Deerfield students participate in activities such as summer camps, sporting events, concerts, outdoor trips, or just lazing around on a nice summer day. This past summer, a large contingent of Deerfield French students lived with exchange students in France, experiencing the local life and culture.

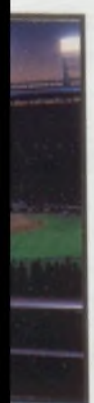

For many students, there's more work in their lives than homework. During the summer, as well as on weekends, students worked at local restaurants, retail and grocery stores, and country clubs. Some students even took up internships, gaining experience in interesting careers, like architecture, restaurant management, medicine and law. More than this, each weekend, students try to recapture the freedom of summer, going out with friends to popular hangouts, like Northbrook Court, Evanston, and The Square, having a blast.

Yes, there is a life outside of school, and the students make the most of it. It is one of the most enjoyable, memorable parts of a student's experience at DHS.

From the gym to the bike rack, music is everywhere. It's in your headphones, it's in the televisions for the Warrior Words, it's in the pencil that you are tapping against the desk, it's in the keyboard that you are typing on. It is even in your feet as you walk down the halls. Music is a sign of who we are, and a huge part of student life here at Deerfield.

Personal Spaces

Where do you go to get away? To study? To decompress? Sometimes finding your own personal space can be quite a challenge. Here are some examples of where DHS students get away to be themselves...

Signs of a Senior Room: College booklets and applications on the floor; homework on floor and desk; posters and pictures on walls; room to hang out in, do homework in, sleep in; cluttered desk

Signs of a Junior Room: Books open everywhere; lots of lamps and alarm clocks;

Lost car keys; Room to do homework in, sleep in;

Signs of a Sophomore Room: Homework on floor/desk, room to hang out in, sleep in; a driving manual.

Signs of a Freshman Room: Messy; plain, a couple pictures on walls; room to sleep in, do homework in; driving permit on the desk;

No matter what grade we are in, our rooms look alike while we are in high school.

FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT! DEERFIELD HIGH!!! What does it mean to be a Warrior? How do you show your Warrior Pride? In the week before Homecoming, students showed their school spirit by decking the halls with decorations, dressing up each day based on a theme, and losing their voices Friday night at the pep rally. From Island I-Hall to Cross-Country X-Hall, with every turn students experienced a different part of the country on Road Trip USA - Destination Homecoming. Students clad themselves in state-specific clothing on one of the dress-up days; some wore straw hats and overalls to represent the Grain Belt, sunglasses and colorful leis for Hawaii, padded winter jackets and ski goggles for Alaska, and chic and trendy clothing for New York. During the rest of the week, students wore the colors of their favorite college, their respective class color, and, of course, red and gray. The dress-ups were not limited to students, as teachers showed their school spirit in dressing up as well.

The pep rally topped off Spirit Week with energy and excitement.

Reason <sup>2</sup> celebrate!

A sunny day, a screaming crowd, and a fabulous football game were the perfect combination for a memorable homecoming. This year, the Warriors took on the Maine East Blue Devils, what turned out to be a blowout.

Homecoming festivities were kicked off by the annual Homecoming parade. The parade showcased the marching band members of the Homecoming court, and various school organizations.

The Warriors played like champions with heart and intensity. Deerfield's defense held down the Blue Demon offense. Played a great game included

Quarterback Jon Fixler, Wide Receiver Sean Fahey,
and Running Back Mike Salemi.

49 to 0 blowout

At halftime, the marching band, color guard, poms, cheerleaders, and drill team took the field in what was one of the best halves of the year. They brought the crowd into the game, giving them another reason to cheer. With outstanding performances from musicians, dancers, and cheerleaders, not to mention the play game, this year's homecoming game should turn out to be one of the most memorable in recent times.

Clockwise from top:
Coach Campbell huddles up with the defense.

Varsity Quarterback Jon Fixler passes the ball for a touchdown. The Warrior offensive line keeps the Blue Demons at bay.

Varsity Running back Mike Salemi stealthily evades the defender as he runs toward the goal.

road trip to Destiny

On October 18, 2003, students reached their homecoming destination and met at the dance. This year the dance was held in the decorated Exhibition Gym. Loads of people with their dates and friends showed up to dine, dance, and have a good time. After weeks of looking for the perfect dress or suit, the evening turned out great and everyone looked their best.

Senior Zach Koch and junior Laurie Dubnow dance the night away.

Lindsay Boyle and Lauren Lapiana took advantage of the balloon artists.

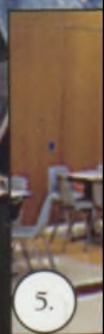

Brett Lemick is almost dethroned by Kevin Hartwig.

Katie Lindquist fixes Mark Schurgin's tie.

Halloween

October thirty-first isn't just your normal day at Deerfield High School. All Hallow's Eve is a wild day filled with festivities, surprises, and, of course, crazy costumes. Teachers and students alike took part in the annual ritual. For the entire school day, students transformed themselves into various monsters, ghouls, cartoon characters, animals and superheroes.

1) Kyle Gati enjoys a nap as a homeless man in the cafeteria. 2) Mrs. Lou Ann Erikson cooks things up in the hallways. 3) Jeremy Kaluzna as a teddy bear. 4) Ms. Andrea Pataky, Ms. Diane Dorigan, and Mrs. Andrea Johnson pose in their costumes. 5) Bridget Bodine and Sarah Frankel displayed thier holiday spirit on Halloween.

6) Michael Grevers dressed as a princess.
7) Mrs. Sharon Kellogg teaching English class as Marge Simpson. 8) Shayna Jensky and Chelsea Crededio dressed as sumo wrestlers. 9) Natalie Garramone as a human pillow. 10) A large group of seniors enjoy the an unseasonably warm Halloween out in the courtyard.

J WESTERN JACKALO

The first white man to see this singular specimen was a trapper named George in 1829. When he told of it later he was denounced as a liar. An odd trait of the Jackalo is the ability to imitate the human voice. Cowboys singing to their herds at night have been startled to hear their lonesome melodies repeated faithfully from some nearby hillside.

What does the eightball say?

After exploring the school and asking juniors to ask the eightball a question, we found the following answers from the great and powerful magic eightball:

- Danny Weinstein asked, "Will I pass my physics test?" The eightball answered It is certain.
- Max Rabinovitch asked the eightball: "Will I pass my history test?" It responded: Don't Count on it.
- Georgie Blum asked: "Will I make up with my friend?" Her answer was: Outlook not good.
- Alex Walter asked: "Will I pass math?" The eightball said: My sources say no.
- In the cafeteria Larry Guttman asked: "Will I ace my math test?" Unfortunately the eightball couldn't give a definitive answer and said: Con- trate and try agin.

--Steve Fink asked the the eightball: "Will I ever become Superman?" The eightball answered: Signs point to yes.

--And in the Deans office we found Matt Waltz who asked: "Am I going to get in trouble?" The eightball said: It is decidedly so.

SIGNS OF...

boys swimming

Alongside his fellow teammates, Junior Ross Azimmerman sprinted into the north cafeteria on the Friday night of the Kiek-It-Again Dance benefiting school chest. Adorned in classic Greek attire - togas and all - they lifted our spirits with their triumphant cheers. The characteristic signs of the boys' swim team, their vibrant and energetic enthusiasm, crystallized the evening as a night to remember. After a hard day of swimming in the pool, the swim team knows how to have fun.

SIGNS OF...

homecoming 2003

The sophomores sent up glorious shouts of spirit and vigor as they made their way down Waukegan Road. In their second year of their career at DHS, they have started to learn the ropes, showing poise and confidence, cheering in cars and on sidewalks. Wearing their green attire proudly, they greatly contributed to our fantastic school spirit. At the pep rally, keeping in mind that they have two more years, the Class of 2006 made sure they were heard.

It was a dark and gloomy night all around the town, and in a blink of an eye, the fight went down. It was the girls versus the boys, the strong versus the weak, the brave versus the scared, the bold versus the meek. Shaving cream was in their hair and on their clothes, it was on their chin and on their nose. It was an all-frosh event with people all around; the voice of a freshman was the only sound. At the end of the night, the two sides were friends; they all hugged and smiled and tied up loose ends.

The Dining Room & Arsenic and Old Lace Fall Play

"The second quarter Fall Play was such a unique experience because it allowed us to put on a full-scale production while also giving us each the freedom to add our own creative ideas to the process."

- Nurit Yastrow

Sponsor: Ms. Helen Foucault

This year for the first time ever at DHS there were two complete fall plays. The first, "Arsenic and Old Lace," depicted the story of two elderly women, played by Leah Finnegan and Lizzie Cowan, who plot to kill elderly men. This hysterical show featured great costuming that transformed high school seniors into senior citizens. The second, titled "The Dining Room," explored the meaning of family. The play took audiences through multiple generations of families all living in the same house in the same dining room. Both comedic and heartbreaking, the play truly moved audiences by the final scene. Audiences enjoyed both plays as all nights for both performances were sold out in the Studio Theater.

Improv At DHS Theatrix

Theatrix is an endless onslaught of laughter fresh from the gray matter of DHS. This improv club spends Wednesday mornings invading the Studio Theatre and filling it with a variety of characters, chuckles, snorts, and the occasional split side. Mimicking the style of the popular television shows "Whose Line is it Anyway?" Theatrix plays theatre games that give participants the opportunity to try to be an extrovert, the center of attention, and be laughed at - in a good way. The games range from the always popular "Party Quicks" to the ever inquisitive "Questions Only." Everyday is ripe with possibilities, and no day is the same. Meeting Early Bird in the Studio Theatre, Theatrix is the best way to start a Wednesday morning.

Student Athletic Trainers

“The best part of athletic trainers is getting to hang out, even sleep, in the training room!”
-Pierce Buckman

Student Athletic Trainers help attend to injured DHS athletes as they watch all athletic events. They learn techniques such as how to tape wrists and ankles and basic physical therapy so that no future injuries occur. They are able to develop their skills in the PERC, where they volunteer their time to help the Warriors get back to their best playing condition. These caring students and their enthusiasm to the job have a lasting effect upon the Deerfield athletics program and the spirit of the Warriors.

Athletes for Athletes is what Varsity Club is all about. Meeting only about once a month, members have discussions and listen to speakers, giving themselves a chance to get to know one another from their respective sports, learn more about collegiate athletics and learning to deal with sports- and school-related issues, such as leadership and time-management. They recognize outstanding varsity athletes, who not only excel in a particular sport, but also demonstrate excellent character, as "Athletes of the Month." The pinnacle activity for the club was sponsoring the Northeastern Illinois Special Olympics.

Our mission: to work together day after day to compile the best year-book ever! Whether we're out of the room taking pictures or working on each individual page, you can bet we are out capturing your year at Deerfield High School. In September, we brainstormed to come up with this year's theme and the winner was "Signs." Then the O*YAD staff designed the layouts, took the pictures, and put together this huge book. When deadlines were approaching, we sometimes met early on Saturday mornings (at least we got donuts!). This year's young staff really came together to work hard and step up to the challenge of taking responsibility for pages. We were able to combine the talents of each staff member to create a unified team.

Deerprints, the award-winning school newspaper, had yet another fantastic year. This monthly publication covers events from the football season to School Chest to the seniors' last day. A dedicated staff of sixteen editors and numerous staff writers put in hours of work to make the paper fun, interesting, and informative. Planning starts three to four weeks before release when editors brainstorm story ideas. Writers interview students, administrators, and faculty about their intriguing stories. Editors must approve the stories before they go off to press. When the final product is realized, the entire school gets excited to read the month's news. Deerprints received ninth place for best in show at the annual fall convention in Washington D.C. This was only one of many awards that the school paper took this year in its quest for excellence. Individual editors also won awards from many other organizations. With its devotion to excellence in journalism, Deerprints most surely can't be beat.

Sponsors: Mrs. Shari Kellogg and Mr. David Hiegel

Well, its time for the daily Warrior Words. The TV's in each room turn on and students get to watch various shows such as Warrior Wakeup, Big Screen Buffs, Sports Scene, and many more. WDHS is produced, directed, and completely run by students. The shows give us information on what's happening at DHS, show us things that we could be doing that we haven't found out about yet, and give us more information on the things that we do know about. They meet every day during their lunch period to work on their shows. Big Screen Buffs reviews movies, gives them a letter grade, and shows clips from the movie. Sports Scene allows the student body to keep up with Warrior achievements on the athletic fields. One of the new shows, Entertainment, features student-made music videos and comedy spots and spoofs. WDHS provides us with interesting and fun TV each week.

Literary Magazine Troubadour

Troubadour is DHS's literary and art magazine published once a year in the spring. Students submit their prose, poetry, short stories, and visual artwork to the editorial board who then selects which pieces will be accepted into the magazine. The board works to make the publication visually pleasing and full of quality work from the student body. Members of the selection and editorial committee say that Troubadour is a celebration of the creative talents of the students at DHS. The entire selection process is anonymous, and thus it is fun for everyone to see who wrote each piece when the magazine is distributed in the spring. It allows students to see their peers in a new light, as writers and as artists. Each year Troubadour seeks original works from a student body with a wide variety of interests and talents.

-Justin Davidson

Jazz Band is DHS’s advanced jazz ensemble that requires an audition to become a member. The band takes basic sketches of classic jazz tunes and creates their own arrangements that focus mainly on the improvised solos of the students. The band consists of brass, woodwinds, and a rhythm section and meets everyday to rehearse and learn about jazz history from conductor Dan Brame. Each year the band competes in the Jazz in the Meadows festival and usually places within the top three of their division. They also perform at a few home basketball games to cheer on the team. This year the band made a special trip to Caruso Jr. High to perform as a World War II swing band as part of a simulation in the school.

From fun traditions to dancing, the Marching Band at Deerfield does it all. The Dancing Flutes, the Sycamore contest, and wearing hats backwards after a win are just some of the traditions that students have established. They play at all the home football games, and this year they played at Highland Park for a playoff game. The band teamed up with the band from HPHS and played both schools' fight songs, the National Anthem, and a few other pieces during pregame and half-time shows. The band dresses in a black hat, a red jacket with DHS on the back, black pants, black shoes, and white gloves. They play a variety of hits such as "Sweet Dreams" by Marilyn Manson, "Eye of the Tiger" by Survivor, "Drive My Car" by The Beatles, and "Sunshine of Your Love" by Cream. They play pieces from musicals such as "Seasons of Love" from Rent. During the game, they always liven up the crowd with their cheers, songs, and routines at halftime.

The group conductor for the symphonic band is Mr. Brame. His band of sophomores, juniors, and seniors has a rehearsal every day during 4th period. They give four concerts per year, one per season. Mr. Brame says that symphonic band is an intermediate band that performs challenging classical literature. The pieces range in style from marches to contemporary pieces. The officers are: vice president Sam Ford, librarian Sara Rust, and secretary Lauren Schlesinger. In March the band went to Philadelphia to perform their amazing songs and show their amazing talent to the rest of the world.

The Wind Ensemble is a group of band members who enjoy the challenge of playing a wide variety of music and of coming together to create music out of the notes written on the page. The group meets everyday during sixth period to prepare works to be performed at concerts throughout the year. The students in the ensemble form close friendships and enjoy the comradery of playing as a group. Officers Elliot Pinkus, Beth Mullins, Tiffany Liu, and Justin Davidson help lend a hand to conductor Mr. Dan Brame in organizing the ensemble. Students look forward each year to the citrus sale fundraiser, and to the band trips during thrid quarter. This year, the band had a wonderful time spending a few days in Philadelphia, where they were able to play as well as see the sights of the historic city.

This year's production of STUNTS included a competition theme, whether it was competing for a girl, in a spelling bee, or in a pie eating contest. The acts ranged from student-made videos to comedy sketches to students bands. The Musical Theater Troupe performed song and dance numbers such as "We are the Champions" and "Anything You Can Do I Can Do Better." The Theater 3-4 classes also added flair to the show with a series of skits themed around a race from X-Hall to R-Hall. The skits hilariously poked fun at some DHS traditions and policies. This completely student-run, student-directed, student-produced, and student-performed show was a huge success and a triumph for all those involved.

Stage Crew

The gleaming hammers, the rotating saws, the hundreds of nails, and the hungry volunteer students are what make the sets of Deerfield High School's plays. These students stay after school every day and construct sets, but they also work on the sound, in the catwalks far above the seating of the audience, and on every aspect of stage technology that Deerfield High School has to offer. The Stage Crew makes each production a success that runs technically smooth so the audience can focus on the show and not the scene shifts.

From freshmen to senior year, students on the class executive boards lead their classes in fun activities that make the school year special. Freshmen represent their advisories and plan community service trips for their class. Sophomores show off their green by designing the homecoming dance. At the end of the year, the sophomore board does the ever popular Senior Citizen Prom, where they design a rocking party for the community's senior citizens. The juniors represent their class by designing the junior float in the homecoming parade and design the junior section of the pep rally. At end of the year the junior board designs and creates the senior prom. Last but not least, the senior board contributes to the school by designing the senior T-shirt, deciding on the class gift, and deciding the awaited senior day. From freshman to senior year the executive boards always represent their true class colors.

Student Council is a great way to get involved in the school. The students that are involved with Student Council represent the whole student body. They help relay information to their homerooms so that everyone remains up to date on happenings at DHS. The Student Council coordinates fundraisers and events. They arrange the Homecoming dance, School Chest, and North Suburban Blood Drive. Small fundraisers include flower sales, pizza sales, and candy sales. The Student Council team meets every Friday during fifth period. They work hard on building a strong and firm school. # Chicago House School Chest

A group of students run to sort through and find their dating fate. As the I-flurtz results came in, kids rushed in to get their sheets. The school chest members were there to help deal with the madness.

No one cares how much you know, until they know how much you care. School Chest is a time for everyone to show how much they can do to make a difference. There are as many events as possible to raise as much money as we can. This year, Chicago House was the chosen recipient for the money that was raised. Chicago House is a safe haven for people and families living with HIV and AIDS. How much did Chicago House receive from us as a school...

$81,056.71!!! It is the largest amount of money ever made during School Chest, and we were more than glad to send it along. This amount of money was amazing, but the dedication of the students and faculty towards this cause really proves how caring we are as a school and a community. There were food sales, money collection in the halls, a compatibility questionnaire, the Bowl-a-thon, and many more fundraising events. All of these things, plus the pure generosity of the student body, allowed this great amount of money to be collected. An "Amazing Job" goes out to everyone who participated!

Juniors get recommended to be admitted to the society, and there is an induction ceremony in the fall, which includes exciting performances of varying mediums. Some presentations this year included songs in the respective language, poetry recitation, skits, and dance performances. Both societies have an element of community service, such as buying clothing for underprivileged families during the holiday season. ## Talk Back

Tuesday afternoons in the Student Union are filled with lively discussions and sometimes intense debates during Talk Back meetings. This informal group meets to talk about topics ranging from political current events to school issues. Some of this year's discussion points have been about the relationship between China and Taiwan, and the graduation problems. People are always free to express their opinions, whatever they may be, and they know their voices will be respected, if not agreed with. There are often differing perspectives, but that's what makes the conversations intriguing and constantly interesting. Talk Back is a great opportunity to let your voice be heard, and to discover the views of other students.

A.W.A.R.E. (Action With Awareness of Right for Everyone) was started by a group of students committed to peace and justice through taking an active role in the community and in education. A.W.A.R.E. encompasses the struggles of people everywhere who work for equality, democratic government, economic opportunity, intellectual freedom, environmental protection and human rights. A.W.A.R.E. members believe that activism can be a positive force for social and political change if it is made part of life. During the past five years, students in A.W.A.R.E. have taken a stand against gay and lesbian discrimination and have tried to raise awareness of the Middle East conflict, race issues in America, juvenile justice and the war in Iraq. This year, A.W.A.R.E. sponsored Jam for Justice, represented the Palestinian territories and invited Nobel Peace Prize Nominee Kathy Kelly to benefit a social cause and give the DHS community some insight into the war in Iraq.

It's a lot of work but it's a lot of fun. D.A.S.A members must design, glue, measure, paint, and blast rockets all throughout the year. They are given their own knife kit, wood, and a few other parts and they are on their way. They cut wood, measure angles, and glue on various parts to make their rockets perfect. The DHS WYSE (Worldwide Youth in Science and Engineering) team competes with schools at the regional level, and if they qualify, at the sectional and state levels. Students in this organization brush up on their knowledge in seven areas: mathematics, chemistry, physics, biology, English, computer graphics, and engineering graphics. At the competitions, students take multiple-choice tests of up to two fields, where each test is forty minutes long. Team scores as well as individual scores are compared, and medals are given out to the highest scorers on each level. Top academic students participate in this activity. Since the tests are typically difficult, WYSE is only open to the most talented junior and senior individuals, usually those who take AP courses. This year, our team took 2nd place in the regional competition.

The Symphonic Orchestra is composed of both strings and winds. It meets everyday during sixth period for the strings, and the winds attend rehearsal about once a week. They perform a wide variety of pieces from traditional works to soundtracks such as “Lord of the Rings” and “Phantom of the Opera.” For the year’s first concert, the orchestra had a Halloween night in which they decorated the auditorium in spooky spider webs and lighting and came dressed in costumes, everything from witches to marching band zombies to the tooth fairy. The orchestra also enjoyed a retreat in the fall in Wisconsin where they made new friends and developed a group chemistry that is crucial to performing well together.

Some of the players said that hockey was one of the toughest sports that they have ever played. Through their hard work, dedication, and the leadership of their captain, Josh Kaplan, they were able to pull through. The team ended up good enough to make it to the state playoffs. Tutors in the Writing and English Resource Center (WERCS) provide a valuable service at DHS. They attend training sessions throughout the year to develop their skills in editing and revising papers, and helping students with reading comprehension and thesis writing. They volunteer their time in the WERCS so that at least one tutor is available for students who need conferences on their writing or reading on a walk-in basis. They help students to progress in their writing skills, as well as catch errors so that the paper reads more smoothly. These tutors enjoy working with their peers and the conferencing helps them work on their own English skills and critical thinking. The WERCS also has a relaxed atmosphere and sometimes students come in just to hang out or do homework. The WERCS tutors are guided by teachers and adult volunteers who can help with difficult questions and also help the process to run smoothly.

The Student Curriculum Board comes together to improve the quality of our education. During the review season of mid-September through early November, students meet with administrators every Monday during Early Bird to discuss matters over school policies and procedures, such as proposed curriculum changes, final exams, class placements, and new scheduling. The students' feedback has given the administration direction in making decisions concerning these issues. The board meets once a month after all proposals for the next school year have been reviewed. Their input has given students a say in the school's program as their ideas and concerns have been seriously considered. The sponsors of the board are Dr. Al Fleming and Mrs. Sue Nielsen.

Writing Club provides a creative outlet for students who love to write in any form. Members of the writing club work on many types of writing, from short stories to poems to character sketches, and share them with each other. Each student's unique style and voice allow for a variety of pieces and keeps the group fun and exciting. This informal group is always encouraging and constructive in critiquing and commenting on the pieces and works hard to create a fun environment for sharing writing. The club discusses different strategies for adding nuance and vibrancy to writing, through elements such as imagery and rhythm. This year, the Writing Club organized a Poetry Slam, a poetry-reading contest that will be held at DHS where students can share their poems with a larger audience.

Let's Play! Deer Park

Top: Dr. Hebson visits some Deer Park friends for lunch.

Have you seen those cute kids walking in the halls? Those are the children of the Deer Park Teaching and Learning Center. Deerfield High School is lucky enough to have an on-site childcare center. Community members and teachers bring their children to grow and learn at Deer Park. Though it's a district center, we feel as though the children are our "Little Warriors". During the day the children develop emotionally, socially, physically and intellectually. They participate in various activities that are based on these four categories. A major advantage of having an on-site childcare center is that the Deer Park kids can interact with Deerfield High School students. For those who sign up to take the Child Development class, they have the opportunity to teach and play with the children. This class is very fun and allows its students to apply teaching techniques in a classroom setting.

Peer Helping smiley faces abound at DHS. With around 150 members, Peer Helping is by far the largest organization in the school. Peer Helping teaches students communication and problem-solving skills. Using these skills, members try to help others through tricky situations like alleviating stress, helping a friend deal with a break-up, and to what to do if your friend is considering committing suicide. At the beginning of the year, Peer Helpers guide transfer students around the school to help them become comfortable at Deerfield as well as being a go-to person for any students in need. Each holiday season, Peer Helping small groups adopt needy members of the Deerfield and Highland Park communities and buy them presents from a wishlist. They also bring stuffed animals to the annual holiday party for children in hospitals and help with the end of the year's "Three Guys and a Truck" charity drive. Peer Helping is a rewarding experience for all those who were involved those year.

Snowball II is limited to upperclassmen and Sophomores. Students who want to keep the ball rolling can even staff Snowball I. This year, Snowball was held at Camp MacLean and Covenant Harbor. Snowball I participants passed the time at a team challenge course, drinking hot chocolate, playing ultimate frisbee, and listening to speakers. Snowball II participants played broomball, listened to speakers, and made new friends with students from Highland Park High School. No matter how students got involved, Snowball 2003 was a success.

The Freshman Advisory Program relies heavily on the impact of the senior advisors. As juniors, these students went through a competitive application process before becoming senior advisors for the future year. These advisors plan programs for the freshman that acclimate them to the new building and give them important information about issues they may come across during their high school careers. They are also involved in fundraising as part of various community service projects. Advisors often develop close relationships with the freshmen, who come to trust their senior role models. The senior advisors serve as leaders at DHS that help continue the tradition of a First Class community of respect and tolerance at DHS.

Seniors are assigned a P.E. class of either freshmen or sophomores and they help to teach the fundamentals of the different sports that are played. Sometimes they design drills, stretching exercises, or even rhythmic gymnastics routines. It is also a great opportunity for upperclassmen to meet underclassmen, and vice versa. The Senior P.E. Leaders are students who enjoy physical activity and friendly competition. They serve as important role models in continuing a First Class environment at DHS. The freshmen and sophomores enjoy getting to know some upperclassmen and the leaders help make P.E. a fun experience for everyone.

Forming alliances, choosing sides, watching your back, we're not talking about the latest episode of Survivor, this is Model UN. Model UN members participate in two conferences a year, modeled literally after the United Nations. Each participating school is assigned to represent a country and learn about the specific issues relating to that nation. At the conferences, students create resolutions and must be prepared to defend and persuade the panel to their nation's side. According to Model UN member Alex Nomitch, the conferences are more than reading and writing papers. "The other kids are the kind of people you really like to be around - people with similar interests. You learn so much about a specific issue - you get to know it really in depth." This year, DHS Model UN participated in the Chicago and Harvard Conferences as Madagascar and Egypt, respectively. The team took away several awards for Best Delegate (Steve Ryan, Harvard Conference), and Honorable mentions at the Chicago conference for eight of the DHS team members. Out of the 150 Nations represented and two thousand students participating, the awards are a rare honor. Very few awards are actually given, decided by a panel of college Staff members who act as the Chairpersons and moderators of the event. But awards are not really the goal for these delegates. Alex Nomitch attributes much of the draw to something more - "You learn so much about other people, and learn a lot about diplomacy and interacting with people."

Scholastic Bowl is one of the academic sports that Deerfield offers. The questions asked pertain to math, social studies, language arts, fine arts, science, and pop culture. It is a team sport, and there is a varsity and junior varsity team. Each team has a captain during the competitions, and the captain has four other players to help the team reach victory. It is similar to the gameshow Jeopardy, and it involves careful contemplation. The players must work as a team to answer the bonus questions and win. Also like a gameshow, it involves a race to the buzzer to answer the toss-up question. This year's varsity Scholastic Bowl team has made it to the sectional competition after winning the regionals.

The one thing no one can think of when naming sports: mathematics. It is truly the ultimate 'mathletic' competition. Schools come from all around to fight for the title of the best math team. The Mathletes study once a week to be in top shape for an upcoming competition. They never know what could be coming their way. Easy tests, hard problems, calculators, no calculators; it is an unpredictable pandemonium of events. At the first competition, the freshmen set high standards by receiving perfect scores across the board. At every meet, the Mathletes look forward to the Candy Bar competition. Over the year, Art Club tackles strenuous tasks such as: painting sets and props for school plays, working on large group paintings, creating the Art Club T-shirt, and holiday projects. Sometimes, Art Club members even have time to work on individual pieces. The annual birthday party for Mr. Bleck is a favorite Art Club event. This year was the “Year of the Three Headed Monster,” dilapidated gingerbread houses, fun in the dark room, and the love of the figure! Through Art Club, members can learn to improve their skills through the guidance of the three headed monster, and Mr. Bleck. Most of all, Art Club is a chance to explore one’s own creativity, and a place to explore fine art and expression.

Everything great in the world has been accomplished with enthusiasm like that found in Swim Guard. Before entering its famed 'Learn to Swim' program, its students, aged 3-14, are often afraid of water. However, with the lessons that are taught by the Swim Guard members, most of them become confident in the aqueous environment. It is no question therefore, as to why many students will travel even as far as Gurnee to learn from the Learn to Swim Program. While the student learns lessons that he or she will need for life, the Swim Guard member is rewarded by a deep emotional satisfaction. Swim Guard meets at 7AM at the pool. Members may opt-in for Lifeguard and CPR Certification from the Red Cross. For those interested, leadership opportunities are also available. With everlasting devotion to its cause, Swim Guard has warmed the heart of the Deerfield community and surrounding areas for the past 45 years.

Engaging in eco-playtime with the children of Walden Elementary School and Deerpark Learning Center, as well as speaking to faculty meetings and advertising around the school. Earthworks members educate the community about the importance of recycling and what "reduce, reuse, recycle" is really all about. On April 22nd, Earthworks hosts an "Earth Day Fair," which gives awareness to DHS students about conservation and saving the environment. Tumblers combines gymnastics and dance to create a unique and exciting show. This year's show was themed "Absolutely Everybody!" and each of its routines were choreographed by students. These students also made all of the artistic decisions, such as the use of props and colorful costumes. The genres of songs ranged from country to modern to funk and included "Bombs over Baghdad" and "Absolutely Everybody!" This year's officers included president Alicia Roston, vice president Rikki Spreckman, secretary Hillary Burstein, treasurer Alyssa Freedberg, and GIMA representative Jayla Gray. Tumblers met everyday in the fall after school to prepare for the show in October. Their hard work and rehearsal paid off - "Absolutely Everybody!" was a hit! Audiences of friends and family came to cheer on the tumblers and see a great show.

Chess Club packs a lot of fun into a small club. At the beginning of each practice, the club meets at one table and Mr. Williams or Mr. Lowery will have a chess setup displayed. The players must figure out how to win the game in a certain amount of moves. Sometimes players will find multiple ways to win. Occasionally, Chess Club will divide into two groups and play against each other. This kind of scrimmage allows players get insight on new strategies and what to do in certain situations. Chess Club competes about twice a month, and they involve sixteen players on eight boards. Each team gets four boards of white and black. The boards have different point values, and whichever team gets the most points wins. First board is worth the most points and eighth board is worth the least. All the players get a chance to compete and bring their game to the next level.

Half-time shows at basketball and football games are never dull when the Poms squad performs its routines. The group dances to hip-hop and funk music and the routines are choreographed by girls on the squad. Each week two different Poms members get a chance to create the dances that are performed at the games. The group also cheers on the DHS teams from the stands. To become a member of Poms, students must audition in the spring a year before the season, and they must be sophomore, juniors, or seniors. In the summer Poms members go away to a camp for four days to improve their skills and teamwork. They also have dinner together before each game. These traditions help the girls form close friendships and become a tight-knit group.

The DHS Cheer Squad provides encouragement and support for the teams as well as entertainment during half-time shows. The girls do complicated lifts, sometimes spinning through the air. # Check It Out Library Board

The library board was created two years ago in order to improve our library. At the beginning of each year, students apply to be on the library board. All different grade levels are represented on this student and faculty committee. The board allows students to serve as a liaison between the student body and the librarians. The library board has made many significant and important decisions that impact the entire school. These changes include restyling the lower portion of the library to include comfy chairs, imposing stricter rules on the decibel level in the library, implementing librarian challenges, and decorating the library for the various seasons. Stage Write vocalizes the literary creativity of DHS students. Set in the cozily small studio theater, the show presents the prose, poetry, essays, and short stories submitted by the student body. A selection committee carefully reviews the submissions and decides which pieces best fit the show. The authors of the selected works can either recite them themselves, or have a peer recite them. English classes, students, faculty, and parents attend the show during its two-day run in the spring. Stage Write provides Deerfield community with an opportunity to experience the talents and passion of writers at DHS. The recitations make the words come alive with emotion and movement, and audience members can appreciate the hard work that went into creating the pieces.

O*YAD STAFF 2004

Above: The O*YAD staff finishes its weekly tradition of rock-paper-scissors tournament ending with a Rock'em, Sock'em Robots Championship Round to see who returns the lunch tray to the cafeteria!

O*YAD Thank Yous:

Azim Khan: You came on staff senior year and really made an impact. Your commitment to the group, especially when we were close to deadlines, was really appreciated. All of your pages were solid and look great! Good luck in college!

Brett Rosenstein: You came onto the scene and destroyed our precious mascots! But you recovered from these freshmen slip-ups and have contributed in a huge way to the book, especially with senior tributes. Thanks for everything, hope to see you next year!

Nicole Izbicky: As the Photoshop Expert, you instantly became a vital member of our staff. Thank you for all your work, which shines through in every section of the book!

Chad Carlstone: Great job this year! Thanks for all of your help. See you next year!

Lindsay Boyle: Your everlasting smile and contagious laugh made G104 a fun place to be! Thanks for all that you did for us this year. Hope to see you in 2004-2005!

Melissa Zimmerman: As part of the Lindsay-Melissa blob, you did a great job with all of your pages. Thanks for your effort and positive attitude. Hope to see you next year.

Justin Malina: As our principal spell-checker, you really helped us cut back on our errors. Great job with all of your pages - the rooms spread looks great! Your reliability was a huge help to the whole team.

Lauren Kanner: Your input in the senior section was crucial to its success! Thanks for your consistent effort and diligence; we couldn't have done it without you. Good luck in college!

Lauren Lapiana: Nice job with all of your pages! Hope to see you next year.

Sam Slade: Your creative flair really helped make this year's book look fantastic. Thanks for all you did this year!

Casey Comisky: Thanks for your great effort this year! Your pages look wonderful. Hope to see you next year.

Ethan Kaplan: Great job this year! You really pulled through and we appreciate your effort.

Matt De Frank: Fantastic job this year! You continued to make a great name for the De Frank legacy. We appreciate all of your hard work and reliability. See you next year!

Alex Higgs, Photo Editor: You were our go-to guy with pictures, always willing to go where the pictures needed taking. Thanks for your consistent effort and great work!

Looking forward to more great things next year!

Jon Schlesinger, Senior Section Editor: Your dedication and work ethic were a tremendous help to the team effort, especially around deadlines. You kept Sarah sane, and your leadership helped guide this year's young staff. Good luck in college!

Danny Weinstein, Senior Tribute Editor: You stepped up and really took charge of the tributes and did a phenomenal job with a challenging task! Thanks for your continuous energy and laughter! Good luck next year, the book's all yours!

Sarah Tallman, Editor-in-Chief: Who is the real Sarah Tallman? A leader full of endless compassion and understanding. Your never-ending patience was crucial to our success this year as we struggled to recover from Ray's death, Brett's antics, and a Dazzle that wasn't quite so dazzling. We don't want to imagine what would have happened if you weren't with us. You must be incredibly proud of this book. We know that you will succeed in college next year. Best wishes in your marriage to Mordecai!

Mr. Herb Regan: Your unmatched support (and consistent threats!) really helped motivate us to get this book done. Your never-give-up attitude amuses us each day! Your continued commitment is the reason this book is getting published before October.

Ms. Andrea Pataky: Food, Glorious Food! Thank you so much for everything you do for us, from showing up early on Saturday mornings to bringing us cookies to being the art side of this book. We couldn't have done it without you!

Special Thanks: Michael Stonacek (cover photo, 8-ball photo, and so many others. . . THANKS!), Ben Lantow, Amanda Correa (your Saturday morning help gave us a huge lift!), Miriam Tallman, Marissa Ellenby, all staff sponsors and coaches, everyone who helped us with the divider spreads, our parents, Blowyad the Oyad blowish, the Jackelope, Regan and Pataky - the Rock'em, Sock'em Robots, and last, but not least, our dear departed Ray the bobble-head.

A black and white photograph of a park scene. The image is framed by a dark, thick arch that curves across the top. Inside the arch, several trees with bare branches are silhouetted against a bright, overexposed sky. In the foreground, two people are walking away from the camera, their forms also silhouetted. The ground is light-colored, possibly snow or sand, with some shadows cast by the trees and people. In the background, a building with a prominent tower or steeple is visible through the trees. The overall mood is quiet and contemplative.
